INDUSTRIAL AND TRADE RECOVERY

Halting Stage Not Yet Reached

MIDLAND BANK HEAD TAKES CONFIDENT VIEW OF FUTURE

London, January 26.

"It seems unlikely that we have yet reached the stage at which the upward trend of industry and trade will be halted," said Mr. Reginald McKenna, Chairman of the Midland Bank, at the annual general meeting to-day.

Whilst admitting that many of the present recovery not to be based on solid foundations in view of labour shortage, excessive speculation, and possible adverse balance of international payments, Mr. McKenna dismisses the first as characteristic of all industrial recoveries; the second as not a dangerous view, as the Bank's stock exchange loans are still well below the two and a half per cent. deposits, which mean between one per cent. in times of depression and four per cent. in the 1928 boom; and the third as providing no cause for alarm since, when formerly the total balance was much in our favour, the balance of merchandise accounts are far more heavier against us.

Hence any shortage of receipts is only likely to prove temporary, an argument which is very strongly borne out by the revelation that the Exchange Control Fund bought the largest quantities of gold in 1936, thus showing that no official intervention is necessary for support of sterling.

It is even very probable that much of the demand for sterling from abroad was due to genuine trade account as opposed to capital account.

The remedy for excessive speculation lies with the banks, who should then directly restrict the quantity of credit used for speculation and continually watch for possible over-expansion of production capital and goods.

Lastly, the commercial banks' ratio of advances to deposits now stands below 40 per cent., whereas previously it was between 50 and 60 per cent., which encourages Mr. McKenna to take a confident view of the future.

World Awaits Hitler's Speech

Sir Frederick Whyte, in his broadcast talk on "World Affairs" relayed from London through ZEW last night, said that the world awaited with eagerness to hear Herr Hitler's speech which he will deliver on Saturday when the German Chancellor will recount all that has happened in connection with the Nationalist Socialist programme since he was appointed Chancellor four years ago.

Sir Frederick remarked that the essential point to bear in mind when hearing or reading Hitler's speech was this: "The purpose of Great Britain's policy has been to put a stop to long range debates and to get the parties to gather round a table.

No public orator, said Sir Frederick, will put his cards on the table for the world to see.

Sir Frederick said that Saturday next was the fourth anniversary of Nazi rule in Germany. When Hitler was appointed Chancellor he asked for four years in which to carry out a Nationalist Socialist programme.

NEGOTIATIONS BROKEN OFF

France And Turkey Fail To Agree

Geneva, Jan. 26.

Negotiations between France and Turkey concerning the dispute over Alexandretta and Antioch were broken off suddenly this morning.

Both countries agreed yesterday on every point except the question of official language when the two towns become autonomous. Turkey insists that Turkish be the language, but France maintains that Arabic be used or Arabic and Turkish be jointly regarded as the official language.

Turkey will not agree to both suggestions.

SIR ROBERT HO-TUNG ON PEACE WORK

Prize Winners In Essay Competition

There was a very pleasant function at the St. Joseph's College yesterday when the prizes, in connection with the Essay Competition sponsored by the League of Nations Society and Hong Kong Peace Group, which was held last October, were distributed to the successful candidates.

It was originally announced that Sir Robert Ho-tung would present the prizes, but the "Grand Old Man" of Hong Kong announced that he was not feeling quite up to the mark and that he would ask his daughter, Mrs. M. K. Lo, to do the honours for him.

There was a large gathering present, and among the official guests on the platform were Lady Ho Tung, Mrs. M. K. Lo, Mrs. Cheung Wing Kuei (representing the Youth Society), Mr. R. A. D. Forrest (representing the Peace Group) and Mr. Stanley Boxer (Secretary of the Society).

EUROPEAN LADY INJURED

Thief Fails To Get Handbag

Mrs. Lissaman, of 7 Aigburth Hall, had an unpleasant experience when she was accosted by a thief at 7.20 p.m. yesterday.

According to a report, she was walking along Battery Path and had reached Garden Road when a Chinese attempted to snatch her handbag, and in the ensuing struggle she fell down and received slight injuries to her left side.

The would-be thief in the meantime made his escape without being able to gain his object.

AIR COMMODORE GILL RETIRED

Air Commodore N. J. Gill, C.B.E., M.C., has retired at his own request, at the age of 46 and after 26 years' service in the Army, R.F.C. and R.A.F. For 44 years up to June last he was Senior Air Staff Officer, Coastal Command, and he has since been Air Officer in charge of Administration, Fighter Command.

Educated at Rugby, he entered the Royal Artillery in 1910 and learnt to fly on a Deperdussin monoplane at Brooklands in 1912. From August, 1913, he was seconded to the R.F.C., and for service in France during the War he was awarded the M.C. and C.B.E. In August, 1919, he was granted a permanent commission as wing commander and resigned from the Army. After commanding the Experimental Establishment at Martlesham in 1922-24 he served for two years on technical staff duties in Iraq, and in 1927-31 was Deputy Director of Technical Development, Air Ministry. While there he took a leading part in developing the machines which gained for this country the Schneider Trophy. He was promoted to Air Commodore in 1932 and in January last was awarded the C.B.

RADIO PHONE LINKS WITH THE WORLD

SHANGHAI TESTS SUCCESSFUL

London, New York Circuits Soon To Be Opened

In the near future it will be possible to pick up a telephone receiver anywhere in Shanghai and in a few minutes be talking with friends in London or New York, states the "North China Daily News" of January 23. Tests are now being completed to prepare the way for daily commercial communication with Britain and America by radio telephone and it is expected that at least one of the two circuits will be operating by the end of next month.

The new service will be made possible through a hook-up with the Chinese Government Radio Administration system. The opening of the American circuit will follow the completion of negotiations now in progress between the Ministry of Communications and the American Telephone and Telegraph Company. It will be possible to call any point in the Bell system via the Pacific Ocean. Communication with London will be on a direct circuit across Asia and continental Europe.

Help To Students In England

MANY PRIVILEGES

The following communique has been forwarded to us by the Chairman of the Victoria League Committee for publication:—

In 1931 a local Committee of the Victoria League, under the chairmanship of the Colonial Secretary, was formed in Hong Kong and since that time has investigated many cases of students from Hong Kong proceeding to England who wished to avail themselves of the assistance offered by the League in London.

The assistance offered is gratuitous, and takes the form of meeting students, finding quarters, advising on educational matters and, as far as possible, helping in regard to admission to the Universities.

Chief Justice Addresses Rotarians

His Honour the Chief Justice, Sir Atholl MacGregor, delivered a highly entertaining talk at the Rotary Club meeting which was held yesterday in the Roof Garden of the H.K. Hotel. It was Ladies' Day and the attendance itself was a tribute to the personality and interest of the speaker whose address, "Random Reminiscences," was most enthusiastically received.

Mr. W. N. Thomas Tam, President of the Rotary Club of Hong Kong, extended a hearty welcome to the guests, particularly the ladies, following which H. E. the Governor, Sir Andrew Caldecott, announced the donation of not less than $20,000 to the King George V Fund by Mr. Fox Ching-ling.

Mr. Tam then congratulated Dr. Li Shu-fan on his election to the Legislative Council, to which the latter suitably replied, and introduced the speaker, Sir Atholl MacGregor.

Sir Atholl MacGregor said in part:—

Early in December, 1934 the Rotary Club of Hong Kong honoured a comparative newcomer to the Colony by inviting him to address them. That invitation I very gladly accepted, and no one enjoyed that luncheon interlude more than I did. Looking back on it, however, I have an uneasy feeling that I rather abused your hospitality and your tolerance by the length of my talk, and I want here and now to assure you that to-day I shall not again offend in that way.

Governor's Appointment

It was stated yesterday by Mr. M. F. Key, Secretary of the Hong Kong General Chamber of Commerce, in connection with the petition sent by the Committees of the Chamber and the China Association in regard to the retention of His Excellency the Governor, Sir Andrew Caldecott, in Hong Kong, that a reply was "expected any time now" though no word had yet been received from London.

The Hon. Dr. R. H. Kotewall, expressed the hope that in this case the old adage "no news is good news" would prove correct. He voiced the opinion that the delay in the reply probably meant that they were exploring the position and examining the matter in London.

Meanwhile, all sections of the community are anxiously awaiting word from the Secretary of State for the Colonies, and the transfer of His Excellency, after so short a term of office in the Colony, continues to be the main topic of discussion.

COMMAND OF THE CURACOA.

Captain E. D. B. McCarthy is to assume command of H.M.S. Curacao, gunnery and torpedo school cruiser at Portsmouth, in succession to Captain R. S. G. Nicholson, D.S.C. He comes from the command of the aircraft carrier Pegasus at the Nore, in which he also succeeded Captain Nicholson. Although she will shortly enter her twentieth year of service, the Curacao still performs useful training work. In 1918, commanded by Captain (now Admiral Sir) Barry Domville she was the flagship of Rear-Admiral Tyrwhitt in the Harwich Force.

Captain McCarthy was promoted in June, 1935, when executive officer of the aircraft carrier Furious. He served in torpedo craft throughout the War, in torpedo-boat No. 17, the destroyers Contest, Ferret, and Lurcher, and the flotilla leader Montrose. He has attended courses at both the Naval and Military Staff Colleges.

Aircraft Carrier For China

H.M.S. Eagle, hitherto in reserve at Devonport, will complete docking there about the middle of this month, and will subsequently commission for service on the China Station in place of the Hermes, the commission of which expires at the end of April. The Eagle will leave for the Far East late in February.

Captain Clement Moody assumes command of the Eagle on recommissioning, after a year at the Imperial Defence College. Up to January, 1936, he commanded H.M.S. Curacao, gunnery and torpedo school cruiser at Portsmouth.

Commander R. Oliver-Bellasis, from the staff course, has joined the Eagle in command until she recommissions, when he will become executive officer with Captain Moody. The Eagle has already served one commission in China, in 1933-34.

COMMANDERS FOR ADMIRALTY

Commander P. F. Cooper, late Assistant to the Maintenance Captain at Malta, is appointed to the Intelligence Division, Admiralty. Commander G. F. Renwick, promoted in June last, while borne in the Nelson, additional for duty with No. 1 Gunnery Cooperation Flight, R.A.F., is to join the Naval Air Division; and Commander J. G. Roper, from the staff course joins the Plans Division.

DUTY IN PALESTINE

H.M.S. Despatch, Captain W. L. Jackson, D.S.C., has arrived at Haifa to take over the charge of naval duties in Palestine, in succession to her sister-ship the Delhi, Captain C. Farquhar-Smith, R.A.N. The Delhi had been there since the departure of the Valiant on November 4, and has now left for Malta.

AMERICA STATION CRUISES

H.M.S. York, flagship of Admiral the Hon. Sir Matthew Best on the America and West Indies Station, is to leave Trinidad, and for the next two months will be cruising off the East Coast of South America. H.M.S. Apollo leaves Nassau for Great Inagua Island and Kingston, Jamaica. H.M.S. Dragon will leave Bermuda for ports in Jamaica, and from January 23 to 29 will visit the Cayman Islands. The sloops Dundee and Scarborough are at Kingston, Jamaica, until January 11 and 18 respectively.

SERVICE CONDITIONS

The Admiralty have now received reviews of service conditions from a number of commands. Consideration of them is being begun as they are received, but no decisions can be given until the reviews in all commands have been completed and examined. Full investigation of all the requests will necessarily require some time, and since it may prove possible to reach decisions on some of them at an earlier date than on others, their lordships propose to promulgate their decisions by instalments and then finally to capitulate them in a single order.

MORE FOREIGNERS LEAVE SIAM

Mr. Karl Hill Shortly To Depart For Suiyuan

Another batch of foreigners consisting of six Italians, one Spaniard and one Briton, left Siam on Thursday by a Eurasia aeroplane, according to the "North China Daily News" of January 23. Taking off at 11.10 a.m., they arrived in Nanjing at 6.45 p.m. the same day.

The 75 foreigners who arrived in Shanghai early on Thursday morning after having been evacuated from Siam, are by now settled in various parts of the city, some of them making preparations to leave for home, and others simply waiting here until conditions in Siam permit them to travel there once again.

The leader of the party, Mr. Karl Hill, is staying at the New Asia Hotel for a week or so, and is then leaving for Suiyuan, where his family is situated. He is said to be enduring hardships, as he was a member of the expedition into the Gobi Desert taking place from 1933 to 1935.

The foreigners who arrived here on Thursday, included British, American, Italian, French, Norwegian, Swedish, Russian, Danish and German nationals.

UNLIMITED PACIFISM

Lord Russell's New Book

However one may disagree with him, Lord Russell is always good reading if only for his limpid style and the manner, at the same time provocative and stimulating, in which he elaborates his arguments.

In "Which Way to Peace?" by Bertrand Russell (Michael Joseph, 7s. 6d.), his contribution to the cause of peace, after briefly expressing himself as to the imminent danger of war and surveying the nature of such war, he goes on to discuss the various policies by which it is hoped that Great Britain will be able to avoid participation or at least ensure being on the winning side.

These are set down as isolationism, collective security, alliances, and "expedients," and in none of them does he perceive aught but objections. For one reason he, like many others—he cites the "Army, Navy, and Air Force Gazette" on several occasions—has no belief in the power of navies to withstand attack from the air. He mentions the American experiment with the Ostrisland, which was sent to the bottom of the sea "by missiles from aircraft (near misses) which had not even touched her." He continues wittily:—

Curious Effect

"The effect of this discovery upon British policy has been curious. It has not led to a discontinuance of battleship construction; on the contrary, we are still spending far more on naval building than on new aeroplanes. A battleship, after all, has its uses; it gives work to the unemployed, profits to a number of capitalists, pleasure to admirals, and pain only to taxpayers."

But the real purpose of the author, which is developed in the latter portion of the book, is to advocate absolute refusal to fight at all on the grounds that in the worst that could happen to us in such circumstances would be preferable to what would certainly happen to us in the event of participating in war, even if we were ultimately victorious. As a matter of fact, he is optimistic as to the results of such unlimited pacifism, making great play with the instance of Denmark, whose very defencelessness is, he contends, her best protection against annexation by Germany.

Many Inconsistencies

But this argument completely ignores the fact that the real picture of Denmark, just as of Holland and Belgium, are the armed forces of the great nations, who would make such annexation a casus belli with Germany. In 1864, when such condition did not obtain, Germany had no scruples about helping herself to a portion of Danish territory, and just as much as she thought could safely be appropriated.

In other respects Lord Russell is inconsistent. For example: "The Spanish rebels are a brutal military oligarchy, supported by savage Moorish and foreign mercenaries, attempting to suppress by force a legally-constituted Government." But elsewhere, when debating at some length the principle of obedience to law, he writes "Obedience to law must have its limits." "Almost all great advances have involved illegality," and that "No one can maintain an absolute principle of obedience to constituted authority."

African Chiefs And The Coronation

It is officially acknowledged that my statement that no African chiefs have been invited to the Coronation is true, writes a London correspondent. The reason given for not inviting them is that the King is following the precedent set by his father at his Coronation, in 1911. Then no African chiefs were invited.

Precedent naturally and properly governs much in the Coronation, but those people who know the African native races and their chiefs best believe it would be a serious blunder to allow the precedent of 1911 to apply automatically to-day, and strong efforts will be made in Parliament to get the decision reversed.

Labouring a Precedent
The position is not what it was in 1911. Constitutionally the

"Mr. Fitzroy was called to the Bar as a member of the Inner Temple in January, 1910. During the War, he rejoined as an officer in the Royal Navy, and served on the Admiralty War Staff, receiving the special thanks of my Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty in 1918. Mr. Fitzroy is not a stranger to practising in the Far East, as he is a member of the Bar of the Supreme Court of Hong Kong, to which he was admitted on July 7, 1924. While in Hong Kong, he held the appointment of Public Prosecutor, and Assistant Attorney General in the Colony of Hong Kong from 1927 to 1932. He has also been admitted, as a member of the Bar of the Colony of Jamaica in 1936.

"Your Lordship has before you the documents in support of Mr. Fitzroy's application—his passport; his certificate of call to the Bar of England; a certificate by the Registrar of the Supreme Court of Hong Kong that Mr. Fitzroy is on the roll of the Court and is a fit and proper person to practice there; a certificate by the Registrar of the Supreme Court of Jamaica that Mr. Fitzroy is a member of the Bar of that Court in good standing; and a certificate by the Attorney General of Jamaica, dated October 6, 1936, that he is well acquainted with Mr. Fitzroy for a year during which he was practising in Jamaica and that he is of good moral character and a fit and proper person to be enrolled as a member of the Law Society of British Columbia.

"I trust that your Lordship will be entirely satisfied, as the Crown Advocate is in presenting Mr. Fitzroy to you through myself that Mr. Fitzroy is, both professionally and personally, eminently qualified for admission to practice as a member of the Bar of this Court."

"Mr. Fitzroy," said Judge Grant Jones, "I have much pleasure in admitting you to practice in this Court and I wish you success in the further prosecution of your distinguished career. I observe with pleasure that you are a member of the same Honourable Society as myself."

Mr. Fitzroy then signed the roll.

SPANISH CIVIL WAR ACTIVITY

Madrid, Jan. 25.

The chief activity of the civil war over the week-end, it is reported belatedly, consisted of aerial and artillery bombardments of the capital.

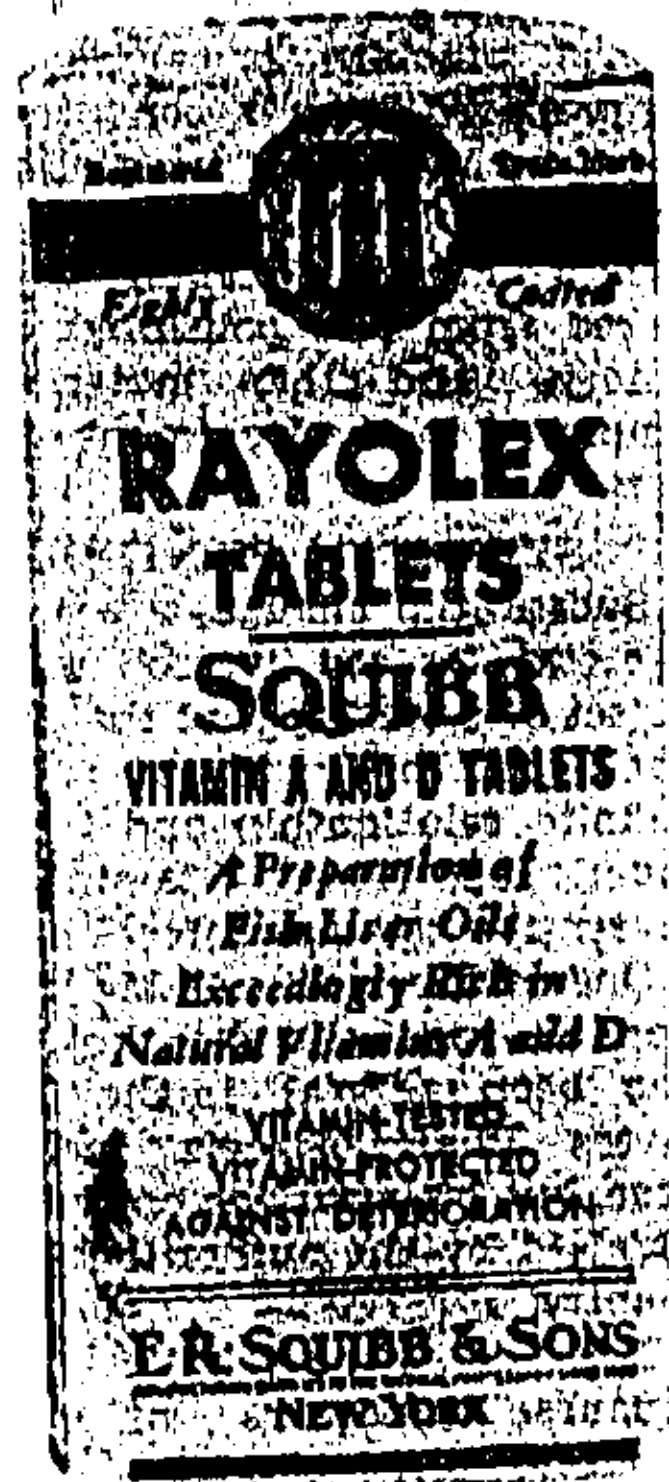

Insurgent planes have been busy, also, raiding eastern coast towns.

The Government claims that a raid by insurgent planes over Madrid on Sunday was repulsed by anti-aircraft guns and that Government planes, pursuing the enemy, brought down one of the raiders.—British Wireless.

Finally, the author is quite frank about the fact that his own attitude is not actuated by any high moral principles. It is, he thinks, merely stupid to fight in a hopeless cause. Nor is he a believer generally in the doctrine of non-resistance. His belief in absolute pacifism is limited to the present time and depends upon the destructiveness of air warfare.

ITALIAN REPLY TO BRITAIN

Spanish Problem Solution

Rome, Jan. 26.

The Italian reply to the British Note of January 11, is in the form of a memorandum in which the Italian Government expresses its agreement in principle to the proposals for immediate measures for the prohibition of the inflow of volunteers into Spain, and declares that these measures should be taken simultaneously by all Governments concerned.

It is in favour of actively pursuing the problem of dealing with indirect forms of intervention and the establishment of an efficient and effective system of control. The Italian Government wishes it to be understood that it has pledged itself to the ultimate attainment of these measures, and it is therefore prepared to adopt the requisite legislation to prevent enlistment, departure and transit of persons having the intent of going to Spain for the purpose of taking part in the civil war.

These measures, which have practically been put into effect already, would be enforced as soon as the other Governments concerned have agreed to take similar measures, and as soon as an agreement is reached regarding the general outlines of an efficient system of control, and also as soon as the London Committee has fixed a date for the simultaneous adoption by all the Governments concerned, of the measures enumerated.

AIR CONTROL

The Italian Government, having examined the Committee's various draft proposals, will shortly let the London Committee have its precise views regarding the possibility of air control. The Italian Government wishes it to be borne in mind that a proposal has been made to withdraw foreign combatants, political volunteers and agitators who are at present in Spain, so as to restore the problem to its original basis of August 1936, and would welcome any suggestions the British Government may have to make in this matter.

The Italian Government reserves the right to submit to the London Non-Intervention Committee concrete proposals regarding these points, or lend its backing to such proposals. It cannot refrain from stressing that should the reports concerning the mass naturalisation of aliens who have flowed into the ranks of one of the two parties engaged in the civil conflict prove to be true, then measures of this sort would undoubtedly be contrary to every principle of authentic non-intervention.

The proposals for the complete evacuation from Spain of the volunteers and politicians now in that country runs the risk of being made ineffective even before it has been examined and discussed. Arbitrary and one-sided action of this kind shows how great a part is being played by foreign volunteers in the conflict.

MR. WANG FLIES TO FENGHUA

Nanking, Jan. 25.

Ever since Mr. Wang Ching-wei's return and resumption of his duties as President of the Nanking Executive Yuan, he has been anxious to meet Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

Mr. Wang has been in constant telegraphic communication with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, and yesterday, he flew to Fenghua, and from there to Fenghua, to confer with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek. He was accompanied by Tsang Chung-ming and Chu Man-ye.

Very few knew of Mr. Wang Ching-wei's sudden departure for Fenghua, and only General Ho Ying-ching and a few others were at the aerodrome to see him off. Chinese Evening Press.

Latest

Leslie Howard's next picture for Warner's will be "Love Derby," with Olivia De Havilland as his leading lady.

The picture should start any minute, now that Howard's stage "Hamlet" has met with such nasty opposition from Broadway critics. It will be directed by Joe May, formerly famous as a German filmmaker. May has made only one Hollywood picture to date. That "Music in the Air" turned out to be a little unfortunate. May also directed "Prince of Arcadia," a Carl British musical.

THANK YOU, JEEVES!

Is your love life in a mess? Then get a load of Jeeves, by Jove, and learn what to do and how not to do it from this "gentleman's gent" who knows all about women!

Played by that sad, silly bean-pole, Arthur Treacher, who always bowls over movie fans with his "fawncy buttling." P. G. Wodehouse's Jeeves makes his debut on the screen at the Queen's Theatre first showing to-day, in the new Twentieth Century-Fox picture, "Thank You, Jeeves!"

With Virginia Field as "the lady in distress" and David Niven as that amiable crackpot, Bertie Wooster, fiction's most furiously funny characters—as charming as they're convulsing—move through a hilarious series of typical Wodehouse adventures.

As the picture opens, the poker-faced Jeeves is painfully giving notice to the pleasantly mad Bertie. What with drumming, banjolele playing and romancing in various knife-throwing countries, even the iron Jeeves nerves are frayed. With a "what-ho" and a "cheerio" it's the quiet life for Jeeves from now on.

Arthur Treacher is the living embodiment of Jeeves, with David Niven perfect as the middle-headed Bertie. Virginia Field provides a lovely and winsome "lady in distress."

Executive Producer Sol M. Wurtzel selected Arthur Greville Collins to direct the film. Joseph Hoffman and Stephen Gross authored the screen play, based on a story by P. G. Wodehouse.

"LITTLE LORD FAUNTLEROY"

An old friend in a new guise was warmly welcomed at the King's Theatre when Little Freddie Bartholomew acquainted us with "Little Lord Fauntleroy," bereft of the traditional long golden curls, plush suit, lace collar, and baby blue ribbon sash, but none the less lovable for that.

This first offering as an independent producer of David O. Selznick, who made such outstanding hits as "David Copperfield," "A Tale of Two Cities," "Dinner at Eight" and "Anna Karenina," is a doubly important occasion in that it also marks a triumphant return to the screen after four years for the lovely Dolores Costello Barrymore, who is co-starred with Freddie in the role of the Little Lord's adored young mother, "Dearest."

Adapted to the screen by Hugh Walpole, the famous novelist, this handsome produced film marks an auspicious start for the newly organized Selznick International Picture Company. The picture is released through United Artists.

playing in Paramount's "National Velvet" after all.

SEA PICTURES OF THE LONG AGO

Players With No Make-Up

Sixteen years ago, the cast of a sea picture had a special prologue to the picture filmed, in which they were all shown in their civilian clothes, minus make-up, with their hair cut and their faces shaved. This special introductory reel was made so that women and children wouldn't be scared out of their seats when the film itself appeared on the screen.

That picture was "The Hell Ship," made in 1920 for the Fox studio, with Madeline Travers the leading lady, Al Roscoe the leading man, and Jack Curtis the heavy. Because of the title of the picture, and the fact that the characters were shown as a gang of rough, tough sailors, it was felt necessary to explain to audiences that this gang of apparent roughnecks were all gentlemen in real life and just play-acting in "The Hell Ship."

"Captains Courageous" That episode was recalled recently by Dick Howard, featured player in the cast of that 1920 epic, and now playing a Gloucester fisherman in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Captains Courageous," starring Freddie Bartholomew, Spencer Tracy and Lionel Barrymore.

"That idea of showing us as we actually looked in real life may appear silly now," remarked Howard, "but it was really popular with the cast at the time. We looked so tough we almost scared one another. Most of the stuff we shot out in San Francisco Bay, and if it hadn't been for the camera equipment aboard, we'd probably have been taken for a pirate ship. We didn't want people to think that we were just a bunch of Hollywood toughs when the picture was released. So we all dressed up in our Sunday clothes and posed for that special reel. And it went over big."

Full Dress Sequence "Some of us who were also in "Women Who Give," another sea picture, made at the old Selig lot and at Cathlamet in 1934, and in William de Mille's "Yankee Clipper" with William Boyd and Elinor Fair, tried to get them to do the same thing with these pictures, but without any luck.

"To-day, of course, it would be considered 'spoiling the illusion' to run that sort of an introductory trailer, but there are plenty of lads in the cast of "Captains Courageous" who'd doubt less like to have a full-dress sequence written into the script, so that they could show what they look like behind the whiskers and when they're out of their oilskins."

PURPLE POOL
FOR GARBO'S
REFLECTION

Blueing With Clear Water!

Greta Garbo's statuesque reflections will dance upon the shimmering waters of a purple pool in "Camille."

After weeks of photographic experiments, the purple pool was perfected by Art Director Cedric Gibbons and Cameraman William Daniels and built in the park at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer for beautiful pastoral scenes with Garbo and Robert Taylor in the famous classic.

We began our experiments for the recording of perfect water reflections on photographic film in "Romeo and Juliet," Daniels explained. But the first pool was built on a sound stage and flooded with artificial light, which we could control.

For exterior water reflections, we were faced with a more difficult problem because we cannot control sunlight. However, we believe we have achieved perfection in photographing exterior water reflections as beautifully as they appear to the naked eye."

RURAL COTTAGE The setting was the rural love cottage of Camille and Armand on the outskirts of Paris. Myriads of flowers bloomed in the meadows, radiant blossoms bowed down the fruit trees, and cows, chickens, sheep, ducks and geese roamed at random around the chateau.

In front of the rambling chateau was the purple pool, spanned by two rustic bridges and its indigo waters trailing into a murmuring brook that vanished into an orchard.

Many of Garbo's and Taylor's love scenes were to be played on the banks of the pool, their reflections dancing on the waters.

Natural water does not photograph perfectly, said Daniels, and seldom carries vivid reflections, so we dyed the water a deep purple, which gives the pool depth, and reproduces moving reflections like living beings. Also, the deep-toned water did not discourage or harm the ducks.

How was it done? By mixing gallons of blueing with certain percentages of clear water. Therein lies the secret, the amount of percentages.

END OF THE TRAIL

A stirring picturization of the historic hundred days war against Spain, culminating in the famous charge of "Teddy" Roosevelt's Rough Riders up San Juan Hill, will be seen in Columbia's "End of the Trail," starring Jack Holt, which is showing at the Alhambra theatre, to-day.

The picture brings Holt back to the vigorous type of adventure stories in which he scored his greatest successes. He is capably supported in this film by an excellent cast including Louise Henry, Gullna "Big Boy" Williams, Douglas Dumbrell, Gene Morgan, George McKay, and John McGuire. Eric C. Kenton, who directed "End of the Trail," also appears in the cast as Lieutenant-Colonel Roosevelt in the thrilling attack on San Juan Hill.

"End of the Trail" was adapted to the screen by Harold Shumate from Zane Grey's story "Outlaws of Palouse," which is considered one of the finest novels ever written by this famed American author.

Dale Brittenham, played by Holt, saves the life of Bob Hildreth, played by Gullna Williams, and loses the sight of one eye. They meet Louise Henry, as Belle, a Red

The Committee of the Royal Engineers Old Comrades Association announce that the next fortnightly dance will be held at the Peninsula Hotel, Kowloon, on Wednesday, February 3, next, commencing at 8.30 p.m. Music will be supplied by the 2nd Bn. The Royal Welch Fusiliers.

Cross nurse, and their rivalry is intensified. They are both in love with the same girl.

When they return from Cuba Hildreth is made Sheriff and Brittenham, unable to get a job, follows a questionable vocation but becomes very rich.

With the girl between them and the two former buddies in arms on opposite sides of the law, "End of the Trail" develops into an intensely dramatic story that moves swiftly and thrillingly to a surprise climax.

OBITUARY

LADIES' INFLUENCE

To-day, I am happy and complimented to see, is a Ladies' Day, and I should be sadly lacking in my duty to the ladies if I did not deal with the influence they have had on the occupants of the Bench. You all know the old story of the Bishop who in reproving his pageboy for some misdeed asked in grave tones "Who is it that sees all we do and before whom even I am but as a crushed worm?" only to receive the answer "The misanthropic Lord."

The latest volume of that monumental work "The Complete Peerage" tells of the first and only Viscount Monaghan, one of the regicide judges, that his wife, with the aid of her maids, stripped him and tied him to a bedpost where, she whipped him "till he promised to behave better politically." To make things worse, after the Restoration his wife was publicly thanked at Quarter Sessions for doing so.

CHIEF JUSTICE MONAGHAN

Ireland has produced many great judges, but there have been others whose fame rests not on their judicial eminence so much as on their oddities. Chief Justice Monaghan was so notorious for his bad language on the bench that a Dublin newspaper published a cartoon of him with his arms and the motto "Juro—I swear. Once a jury in a horse stealing case acquitted the accused in the face of clear evidence. Monaghan turned to the accused and addressed him thus "The jury say you didn't do it so you may go, but you stole the bloody horse all the same."

LIKE A GOOD CHILD

It has been well said that a good judge like a good child should be seen and not heard; unlike his jokes which too often are heard and not seen. Occasionally however there comes spontaneously from the bench a repartee which is truly witty, and of those I always like to remember too. Lord Thesiger, who was Chancellor of the days when whilst was part of a gentleman's education, had before him a counsel whose leading questions to his witnesses provoked the Chancellor's remonstrance. "My lord" said counsel "I have a right to deal with my witnesses as I like." "Certainly Mr. So and So" replied the Chancellor "but you know that if you deal you cannot lead."

JUDGES ARE HUMAN

Judges are human, and therefore they vary one from the other, even in the conscientious performance of their judicial duties, and in nothing is that variance more noticeable than in the assessment of sentence. Some, like Day and Hawkins, have become proverbial for their severity, while others have been equally lenient. Remember too that nobody better understands the sentence that he deserves than the old lag, and you will appreciate this story. Mr. McConnell, a very kindly judge, at the London Sessions one day gave an old hand a sentence which certainly did not err on the side of severity. The prisoner in his astonishment turned to the jailor and said "What's the matter, Has your Governor had a couple or don't he know his job?"

NO AGE LIMIT

There is no age limit for judges and the desire of some of them to cling to office when mental and physical powers have long failed is at times embarrassing. In the Supreme Court of the United States one judge "A" was so manifestly past his best that the other judges met and deputed "B" to persuade "A" to resign. "B" was so tactful that "A" retired forthwith. In due course "B" in turn became too old for effective work, and this time Mr. Justice Harlan was appointed to make representations to him. He found "B" dozing in the library, and as a means of approach to his delicate request asked "B" if he remembered how he had persuaded "A" to resign. "Indeed I do" said "B" in determined tones, "I remember it well, and a dirtier day's work I never did."

FUNERAL CARD

Of an old Scottish judge, Lord Kames, who was notorious for the coarseness of his language, the present Lord Justice Clerk, Lord Atchison, recalled an amusing story at the Sir Walter Scott centenary dinner in 1932. "Kames sat on the bench till he was nearly ninety—a precedent beloved of judges, and in his farewell speech called his brother judges 'auld hitches'—a precedent beloved of the bar."

Most unfortunate of all, I think, was the judge whose long awaited

TREAT FOR RADIO FANS

Aerial Amateurs To Broadcast

Local radio fans are promised some excellent entertainment to-night when the Aerial Amateurs go on the air for the first time in Hong Kong.

Mr. A. Greenburg is responsible in getting together a band of young people between the ages of 15 and 25 and they have formed themselves into a group which ought, in a short space of time, to increase in numbers as it is the intention of the organiser to enrol as many young artists as possible.

The Aerial Amateurs will be on from 8.30 p.m. to 8.55 p.m. to-night, and will give the following programme:

1. Aerial Amateurs Opening Chorus—Theme Song
2. Youth on Radio—Vocal Solo and Chorus
3. The Reformer Reformed—Humorous Sketch
4. From "The Gay Divorcee" to "Follow the Fleet"—Astaire-Rogers Piano Selections
5. So Early in the Morning—Miniature Musical Comedy
6. Welcome Lord Drinkwater—Humorous Sketch
7. Little Peak House—Topical Ditty
8. Aerial Amateurs Closing Chorus—Theme Song retirement provoked this funeral card, usually attributed to Sir Frank Lockwood.

In memory of Mr. Justice X Who departed this official life on the blank day of blank.

Scrupulous in the avoidance of every duty he gracefully escaped the obligations of this transitory life. Regarding virtue as a thing beyond price, he was careful not to degrade it by practice. His mind was a storehouse of knowledge of which he had lost the key; and in finally paying the debt of nature he left to his sorrowing friends the consolation of meeting his other liabilities.

One day Sir Archibald Bodkin, at that time a Treasury Counsel, was driving in a cab down Kensington Causeway to the South London Sessions where he had a long prosecution inconveniently first in the list. As he drove along he saw Sir Peter Edlin, the Chairman of the Sessions, walking to the Court. The day was hot and the old gentleman was making heavy weather of his walk, so Bodkin stopped and offered him a lift. Sir Peter was grateful and Bodkin thought he might improve the occasion, as he had a lot of work elsewhere, so he asked Sir Peter if he would agree to an adjournment. "Certainly, my dear Bodkin. Certainly. Mention it directly I come on the bench and it shall be done," was the grateful response. On arrival at the Sessions Bodkin dashed into Court, explained the matter to his solicitor, and made his application. To his dismay Sir Peter Edlin said in freezing tones "Application refused." Too late, poor Bodkin realised that in his hurry he had forgotten to pay the cab.

There is no greater fund of stories than those of bench and bar, but I must remember my promise to you, and the passage of time. Lord Bacon in his Essay on Judicature wisely wrote "An over-speaking judge is no well-tuned cymbal," and Bacon is an authority who is entitled to every respect. I should like, if I may, to thank you all for the very patient and appreciative hearing you have given me.

SPEAKER THANKED

The Hon. Mr. M. K. Lo was called upon to thank the speaker on behalf of the members and guests, in the course of which he said:—"To-day's meeting reminds me very vividly of the meeting two years ago, when the speaker then was the same as the one we have listened so enjoyably to this afternoon. To-day he has imparted to us, with that usual abundance of wit and humour for which he is famous in Hong Kong, a collection of jokes which he calls 'Random Reminiscences.'"

Two years ago I had the honour of occupying the seat of Rotarian Tam holds to-day. Then I had the pleasure of announcing that Sir Atholl MacGregor had consented to become a member.

Among the guests were H. E. Sir Andrew and Lady Caldecott, Sir Atholl and Lady MacGregor, Sir Shou-son Chow, Sir Henry Pollock, Mr. Justice J. J. Hayden, and Mr. J. Abbott.

2. Tsai Tsing Tsien (St. Stephen's Boys' College);
3. Chan Mo Lin (Bellicus Public School).

Highly Commended:—Chien Piu Tsun (La Salle); Lui Po Shim (Bellicus); Lai Chaak Po (King's College).

SIR ROBERT'S SPEECH

After Mrs. Lo had given away the prizes, Sir Robert's speech was read by Mr. Wei Tat as follows:—

I want first of all to congratulate the League of Nations Society and the Peace Group on having such strong faith in the ultimate triumph of Peace as to inspire them to organise this Essay Competition year in and year out. I want to congratulate the successful competitors. None the less I want to congratulate all the other competitors on having participated in this competition which has the promotion of "Peace on Earth" as its noble aim. The winning of prizes is certainly a thing to be rejoiced at, but the real value of a competition such as this lies, I think, not so much in gaining prizes as in encouraging and inspiring students to study the great problems of War and Peace, to acquaint themselves with the principles of international amity which have been thought out by the great thinkers everywhere and to prepare themselves for active service in the cause of World Peace in the future.

PEACE IN CHINA

I will not have discharged my duty satisfactorily if I fail on this occasion to refer, however briefly, to the humble effort which I myself as a single individual ventured to make about ten years ago to initiate a peace movement in China. It was a time when China was torn asunder by many warring and political factions, all thinking that their mode of government was the most suitable for their country. Despite my personal limitations, I travelled from province to province interviewing the leaders and appealing to them to come together for a round-table conference to settle their differences for the welfare of the nation as a whole. Whatever the result of my labours might have been, I am grateful to have been able to lay one of the stones for the Temple of Peace which is in course of construction in China to-day.

I am afraid that I am now far too old to further this urgent cause, but I look to you of the next generation to develop and complete this task for your country. Finally, may I add that the time has come when you should adopt a wider outlook and envisage the peace of the whole world instead of the peace of a single nation. For the realization of this ideal no institution can play a more significant part than our League of Nations Society and our Peace Group and I avail myself of this opportunity to express my best wishes for their continued progress and ultimate success. (Applause.)

At the conclusion of the meeting, Mr. Forrest, on behalf of the Society, thanked Sir Robert for his attendance and his valuable talk, the University and St. Joseph's College for the use of their halls, and many others who had helped.

REGISTRY WEDDING

Chinese Couple United

At the Registry Office yesterday the wedding took place between Miss Cheuk Mei Woe, of 13, Shepherd Street, Tai Hang Village, and Mr. Cheung Sang, draughtsman, Royal Naval Dockyard, living at 116, Tung Lo Wan Road. Mr. J. P. Murphy, Deputy Registrar of Marriages, officiated and the witnesses were Mr. Cheung Wing Shing and Miss Cheuk Sui Woo, sister of the bride.

FAMOUS GENERAL COMING

Colonel Of Ulster Regiment

GEN. SIR ALEXANDER GODLEY

Preparations are being made by the 1st Battalion of the Royal Ulster Rifles to welcome General Sir Alexander J. Godley, G.C.B., K.C.M.G., the Colonel of the Regiment, who is to visit Hong Kong together with Lady Godley, from February 17 to February 23.

Sir Alexander is a distinguished soldier and former Governor of Gibraltar. He commanded the siege of Mafeking during the Boer War, being staff officer to Generals Lord Baden-Powell and Lord Plumer. In that war he also commanded the Rhodesian Brigade.

In the Great War, General Godley commanded the New Zealand Expeditionary Force throughout in the Dardanelles and Egypt and also in France and Belgium. He won many high honours for his services. From 1923 to 1933 he was Governor of Gibraltar, retiring in the latter year.

The Programme

General and Lady Godley will arrive aboard the s.s. Naidera at 9 a.m. on February 17, and the General will be received by a guard of honour at the wharf. At 8 p.m. the same day, the band and bugles of the Battalion will sound "Retreat" at Shamshuipo, and half an hour later there will be a cocktail party at the Officers' Mess.

On Thursday, February 18, General Godley will inspect the Battalion at 10 a.m., and will present long service and good conduct medals. He will visit the Sergeants' Mess and Institutes at 11 a.m. At 6 p.m., Mrs. Rodwell and officers' wives will give a cocktail party to meet Lady Godley.

There will be a dinner in honour of the General and Lady Godley at Flagstaff House at 8 p.m. on Friday, February 19, whilst on the following day, the distinguished visitors will attend the Races and later be the guests of honour at a dinner at Government House.

On Sunday, February 21, General and Lady Godley will attend the Fanling Races, and on the following day will make a visit to Canton. They depart on Tuesday, February 23.

LONDON HOTELS FULL

Coronation Rush

All the principal London hotels are already fully booked for the Coronation week. "Overflow" applications for rooms, I am informed, are to be referred by the hotels which receive them to a central Coronation accommodation bureau which has been set up by the hotel and restaurant proprietors in association with the travel agencies and transport organisations, writes a correspondent.

There is accommodation for about 250,000 people in the London hotels, and room for a further 250,000 in boarding-houses. The bureau will have to double, and perhaps treble, that capacity.

CHINESE PARTY FROM SHANGHAI TO MANILA

The first group of travellers to reach Hong Kong on its way to the Eucharistic Congress at Manila will arrive by the s.s. "Potsdam" on Thursday. It will consist of a party of Chinese Catholics from Shanghai, under the leadership of Mr. Lo Pa Hong, a prominent industrialist and leading Catholic of Shanghai.

Mr. Lo attended the International Congress at Chicago in 1926, and on the present occasion he is attending as a member of the Papal Legation's suite, being appointed to that honour by His Holiness the Pope. This means that in Manila he will stay with the Papal Legation, Cardinal Dougherty, at the President's palace at Malacañang, and will be present as an official guest at all the functions.

Mr. Lo is a Papal Knight and is holder of many other decorations conferred by the Pope and by the heads of European states because of his charitable activities which are on a huge scale. He has provided shelter for many thousands of all ages in one centre alone, the Pu Yu Institute, and it was there that a few weeks ago he was invested with the insignia of his latest honour, that of Papal Chamberlain of the Cape and Sword.

The ceremony was witnessed by many distinguished visitors, including Dr. C. T. Wang, the Ambassador-Elect of China to the United States, who spoke warmly of that occasion in praise of Mr. Lo's princely benefactions. The new honour makes him a member of the Pope's household and gives him right of entry to the Vatican at any time.

THE VICTORIA LEAGUE

The League also gives facilities for visiting places of interest and generally in bringing students into contact with English social life. The League reports on the health of students and will, if so desired, act as guardians.

PRIVILEGED TREATMENT

Students are furnished with personal introductions to prominent people, and are given the opportunity of visiting The Houses of Parliament, Hurlingham, and Ranelagh besides attending many large receptions, dances and parties. The League will furnish personal reports on students under its care for the benefit of parents and guardians.

The report of Mr. A. G. Morkill, Joint Secretary for the Committee which concerns itself with students from Hong Kong and Malaya, for the first half of 1936 contains the following:

"The students as a body are pursuing their studies in their usual cheerful way and most of them will make a success of them. There is still, in spite of propaganda, a tendency for half educated men to come over before they are qualified to enter a University. It cannot be repeated too often that such men have great difficulty in gaining admission and should complete their education up to the necessary standard. It is only fair to point out that of the two recent cases of students sent down from Universities one came over in defiance of the advice tendered to him by the Victoria League and the other was brought over by his own headmaster without consulting the League."

LOCAL COMMITTEE

Owing to the action of the League Committees these cases are fewer than they used to be.

The local committee consists of:—Hon. Colonial Secretary (Chairman).

The Vice-Chancellor, University of Hong Kong (Vice-Chairman).

Hon. Secretary for Chinese Affairs. The Director of Education. Mr. S. W. T'so, C.B.E., LL.D. Honourable Mr. T. N. Chau. Miss Alice Kwok.

Inspector of English Schools (Education Office) Joint Honorary Secretary (Hong Kong). Mr. T'so Tsun On, Joint Honorary Secretary.

Such persons as may wish to avail themselves of the assistance of the League should apply to one of the Honorary Secretaries, with a view to obtaining a letter to the Secretary of the League in London.

WEDDING

The forthcoming wedding is announced between Endel Meln, musician, 40 Hankow Road, Kowloon, and Anastasia Petrova, of Canton.

SEVEN-DAY SOJOURN

Details are being collected of all the available accommodation in hotels, flats, and private houses within a radius of 50 miles and an hour and a half's journey from London.

Accommodation for seven days or more is most in demand. Rooms which are available for only three days will not be registered, because it is believed that few of London's visitors will desire to remain for a shorter period than that.

Hussars And Horses

The parting—which has lately been effected—of the 10th Hussars from their horses will grieve others besides the 10th Hussars.

Through the ages the horse has served man as no other animal has done. In time of peace it has been the companion of his labour and his leisure. In time of war it has shared with him the dangers of the battlefield. It has had a place in man's thoughts and in his songs. It has played an honourable part in his history. From East to West, from North to South, every country that has known horses has remembered some of them in its legends.

For these reasons, man's farewell to his steed must ever be a sorrowful occasion, especially sorrowful when, as in the case of the 10th Hussars, a regiment and its horses have worked together for over two hundred years.

But there is more than the parting from an old friend in "The Tenth's" abandonment of horses for mechanical transport.

There is a farewell to romance; and the farewell is a symbol of a time in which not man, but the machine, is the hero.

It is improbable that war was ever the pleasant occupation which some poets and painters have depicted. But at least war on horseback stirred the imagination; at least then, it was the activity, for good or ill, of living and sentient beings. Now war is an affair of mathematics and motor-cars, of gas bombs and Gatling guns.

True, man directs these monstrous implements of slaughter. But he directs them with his brain, and his brain must be cool and clear. With the com-

SHENSI REVOLT
SOLUTIONComplete Obedience
Demanded

Shanghai, Jan. 26.

The government is determined to admit no solution of the Shensi trouble except on the basis of complete obedience of the rebels to Government orders, according to a well-informed Chinese source, which adds that the present negotiations are directed towards obtaining a compromise only within the framework of the Government's terms which require retention of full military control over Northwest China. Above all, Communist participation in affairs of the Northwest is unthinkable.

If the negotiators in Tungwan succeed in winning back the allegiance of sections of the rebels, the government task will be lightened, but in any case Nanking will not hesitate to deal forcibly with the recalcitrants if peaceful means fail.

Asked whether the Government is really prepared to take military action on Thursday, the informant said that if the negotiations promise success, the truce would conceivably again be extended, but there must be a limit to the Government's patience.

Reuter.

NANKING ULTIMATUM

Shanghai, Jan. 26.

An ultimatum has been presented to the Shensi rebels by the Government which gives them until noon of Thursday to accept or reject its terms, according to reliable Chinese reports.

This action follows the reported extension of the truce at the request of Yang Hu-cheng, which has exhausted the patience of the Government. The one hope for peace at present rests upon the result of negotiations between the representatives of General Ku Tsu-tung, new commander-in-chief in the Northwest, and the delegates from Shensi, who are meeting at Tungwan.

Meanwhile, the Chinese press is reporting dissension in the rebel ranks over the question of affiliation with the Communists, which threatens to split the ranks of Yang's forces. Chang Hsueh-liang's old army into two camps. Opposition to the Communist union is reported to be very strong among the men Chang formerly commanded.

Reuter.

LOYALTY DOUBTED

Nanking, Jan. 25.

It is reported that the proposed assurances of loyalty as coming from Generals Yang Hu-cheng and Yu Hsueh-chung are unreliable, but the Central Government is adhering to its original policy and has sent Generals Mi Chun-lin and Hsueh Ho to interview General Kuo Chuk-tung in Tungwan.

General Shang Shen has left for Loyang to see General Liu Chi in connection with the negotiations. The movements of these Generals is proof that the situation in Shensi is not very encouraging.

It is understood that the Central Government has not accepted General Yang Hu-cheng's terms for a peaceful settlement.

The Central Government insists upon obedience to its order of January 5 last demanding absolute control of the whole of the military forces of Shensi province, but General Yang Hu-cheng is obstinate and refuses to obey the Central Government and surrender his authority.

General Li Chih-kang is returning to Shensi shortly to announce the Government's unswerving attitude.

HEALTH RETURNS

One imported case of small-pox, six of diphtheria, and one of puerperal fever were reported for the 24 hours ended on Monday. The health returns for the week-ended on January 23, shows that there were four cases of small-pox, eight of diphtheria, three of scarlet fever, eight of enteric fever, four of cerebro-spinal fever and 61 deaths from tuberculosis.

ing of the machine, the passion has gone from war, as the art too often has gone from industry. And all that remains is the relentless purpose of civilised man to kill as many as possible of his fellow men. Is it to be wondered that war to-day is as horrible as it was never before?

EXCLUSIVE FEATURE
DIVERTING ASPECTS

THE "GINZA" OF TOKIO

BY PHILIP NESBITT

The "Ginza" is to Tokio as Broadway is to New York. It is a broad and elegant avenue; a Regent street, an Oriental Market street, a Champs Elysees or a Hollywood boulevard. It cries aloud for attention with its blaring radios and innumerable printed placards. These placards reveal, betray and advertise Japan's place in the sun. The Tokio townsfolk, the city-seekers, the beggars and peasantry (there are fewer beggars in Japan than in China) mill down its two-mile length with the greatest energy, more superb carelessness and grace than anywhere else.

The manufactured goods of our world . . . of Christendom, copied to perfection by the artful craftsmen of Japan, glitter behind the plate glass windows of 40 score shops and stores.

THE MODERN MAN

It was my habit, while in Japan . . . in Tokio, to see as much of this modern man, the "layman of Japan" as I could. He strolls on the Ginza, so I too, took to strolling on the Ginza, with my bamboo cane and sketchbook. I dodged millions of taxi cabs. Perhaps it may be cautiously said, that there are far more cabs in Tokio than in New York. It does appear that way. It also appears that all Japanese cab drivers are madmen. With no sense of fear, or even a touch of reticence, they drive with remarkable abandon; ready to hit or miss quite happily. At night time, no cab may drive passengers without the top light being on. This is because of the past frequency of "taxi murders." Who would ever want to be done away within a madman's auto? Also there exists a law in Japan which compels cab drivers to use only a soft throated horn. When heard in unison, the soft throated honking of 10,000 hysterical taxis is not unlike a vast herd of ailing cattle mooing to move heaven and earth.

ARROGANT MALES

Along the Ginza I met more than once, violently, with that mortal known as the "arrogant male." He is the die-hard of Japan. He is likely to be blunt and retrogressive American who refuses to recognize these changing times. He is always attempting to impede the progress of the juggernaut, Humanity.

This arrogant Japanese male wears a fedora or a derby atop his dull coloured costume robes. His elbows, well hidden in the cloak, protrude like sails as he marches to his mysterious destination. Beware the arrogant male, for he is a rib-digger, a poker-in-the-middle-man, a swift bump!

Contrasting to the sick cow sound of many taxi horns on the Ginza is the shuffle-clatter of wooden shoes. Odd, is it not, that the two peoples wearing wooden shoes as part of a national costume, should be 12,000 miles removed from each other; the Dutch and the Japanese!

Frequently the Ginza falls silent; the troops are marching by. Not very different from the German goose-steppers, are these grim Japanese soldiers, with their bristling, Occidental styled tooth brush mustaches and stiff shoulders. The cavalry, smallish horses, smallish men . . . prances down the well paved avenue. (American macadam process). No gentleness marks the set countenances of these grim platoons; instead, a fixed and ferocious expression calculated to kill at a glance. Ernest, energetic men, hell-bent to win or lose, sabers clattering against saddles, the thump of heavy marching boots, the hooves of the horses and the waving plane of glinting bayonets held high. The troops have passed. Suddenly then, the Ginza comes back to life. The surging populace forgets the troops from Northern Japan who enjoy war and conquest.

The Militarist party, consisting of arrogant males in high position, are they who hold constant images of fear of warring issues before the simple folk . . . the rice eating folk of Japan.

Evening Teachers
Union
ANNUAL DINNER DANCE

The annual dinner dance of the Evening Teachers' Union was held last night at the Hotel Cecil, which was attended by a fairly large gathering of members and guests, music being provided by Mickey's Melody Makers.

The official guests were Messrs. J. Ralston and T. R. Rowell, Inspectors of English Schools, and Mrs. Ralston.

At the conclusion of the dinner, the Chairman of the Union pointed out that the Union was still in its infancy, being in the third year of its existence. He stated that its organisation served to provide a medium to bring together the teachers of the various schools attending lectures at the Institute.

Dancing followed the speeches, which lasted until the early hours of this morning.

LANCHOW TOWN
UNEASYCity Gates Closed Most Of The Time

Loyang, Jan. 26.

Reports from Lanchow, provincial seat of Kaidun province and headquarters of General Yu Hsueh-chung, stated to-day that the town is in panic and that the city gates were closed most of the time.

With a state of panic prevailing in the provincial capital, the price of rice has risen to $14 a peck (about 18 pounds).

General Yu Hsueh-chung, a subordinate of Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang, appears to be sympathetic with the rebel leader General Yang Hu-cheng. While Nanking official reports once claimed that General Yu's troops refused to join the rebel cause, the state of turmoil in Lanchow indicated that Chairman Yu's loyalty to Nanking is propaganda.—Union News.

CHINESE PROTESTS

Nanking, Jan. 26.

The Ministry of Foreign Affairs lodged a protest with the Japanese Embassy with regard to the discovery of a Japanese espionage organ in Chengchow, Honan province, uncovered about two days ago.

According to the protest, the Japanese agents utilized Chinese mercenaries to secure important information to the detriment of China.

There is yet no reply to the two Chinese protests against the flights of Japanese army planes over Tsingtao. This incident was repeated yesterday when Japanese machines flew over that northern port. A third protest was lodged to-day with the Japanese embassy here.—Union News.

SUICIDE IDENTIFIED

The unknown Chinese who jumped to his death from the seventh floor of the China Building on Monday has been identified as Lan Po-cheung, 24, unemployed. Police investigations revealed that the man was a native of Hong Kong and prior to his death resided at 43 Gough Street.

No yellow peril, these simple people, but the Militarists, ah, they, like our own, threaten dire calamity unless they are heeded, unless they are treated properly. Well known it is, that he who kills most readily is the most sensitive of humans. They are the ones who place economic issue before life itself. To them, property is more precious than unsplit blood.

CAFES AND GIRLS

Near the Ginza, obscure in little side streets and alleys are the cafes. Badly made "whisky sodas" are given for a yen apiece (15 cents). Saki . . . rice water recently fermented is served hot, like spiced wine, to guzzling, brain-weary students improving their intellect for service to the Emperor. Each cafe has its quota of girls, not Geishas, just girls, hired and skill gay little women, amoral as infants, ready to tickle or be tickled or play that curious musical instrument of Japan, and to smoke "American cigarettes."

NON-INTERVENTION IN SPAIN

BAN ON FOREIGN ENLISTMENTS

German-Italian Replies Offer Hope Of Agreement

London, January 26.
The German and Italian replies which were received yesterday to the British note of January 10 are regarded here as encouraging the hope that an international agreement to prohibit further departure of foreign nationals to Spain will be reached at an early date.

The British proposal was that once the powers concerned had given agreement in principle, a date would be fixed when the legislative and other measures prepared by the non-interventionist countries concerned prohibiting the departure of volunteers to Spain would take effect.

It is expected that a meeting of the Non-Intervention Committee will shortly be summoned and that such a date will be suggested.

Meanwhile, experts dealing with the problem of control have produced that are understood to be businesslike and effective proposals, which it is hoped will be long before co-ordinated into a final scheme acceptable to the powers and capable of early application.

BERLIN COMMENT

Berlin, Jan. 25.
Commenting on the German Government's reply to the latest British Note regarding the participation of foreign volunteers in the Spanish conflict, political quarters here stress the conciliatory tone of the German answer. Regret is expressed that the British Government so far has failed to respond to the German Government's reference to the present numerous foreign volunteers in Spain and the fact that the naturalisation of these has either been planned or is already being effected by the Spanish Government.

The insufficiency of the measures taken by the French Government, which merely obtained Parliament's consent for the prohibition of the departure of volunteers for Spain but failed to close the frontiers, is also emphasised here. Particular stress is laid on the point made in the German reply that the German Government has prepared legislative measures forbidding the departure of German volunteers.

Generally speaking, so political quarters here declare, the German reply constitutes a further concrete contribution towards the isolation of the Spanish conflict, and therefore towards the appeasement of Europe.

URGENT MESSAGE

Berlin, Jan. 25.
In an article dealing with the German and Italian replies to the British proposals regarding the volunteer question in Spain, the "Deutsche Diplomatische-Politische Korrespondenz," which reflects the views of the Wilhelmstrasse, says that Germany and Italy did not adopt the view that the solution must be "indivisible" but that for the time being, a beginning should be made with the most urgent problem, namely, the inflow of volunteers into Spain.

The Non-Intervention Committee will soon give the different Governments occasion to reveal their true intentions towards the entire situation, and it will then be seen whether problems, such as the withdrawal of those foreign volunteers and propagandists who are already in Spain, are tackled with the same determination as that shown in the desire for the termination of the conflict.

LONDON HOPES

London, Jan. 25.
The German and Italian replies to the British proposals regarding the Spanish conflict are regarded here as very satisfactory and they answer, so it is pointed out, practically everything that could be expected.

Although reticence is still being shown regarding the next move to be made, it is believed that the Non-Intervention Committee will be convened during the next few days in order to discuss what measures should now be adopted.

GENERALLY SATISFACTORY

Paris, Jan. 25.
The Italo-German replies on non-intervention are regarded in authoritative quarters as generally satisfactory. It is held now that there is no reason why steps should not be taken comparatively quickly to fix a date for application of control and the details of such application.

SATISFACTION IN LONDON

London, Jan. 25.
The German and Italian replies to the British note concerning volunteers for Spain are considered satisfactory in British official quarters, as they appear to accept in principle the banning of recruiting for service in Spain and the despatch of volunteers.

All powers represented on the Non-Intervention Committee have thus reached agreement on this point. The next step will be for the Committee to consider the replies to the British note. It is thought the Committee should have no difficulty in agreeing on a control plan along the lines of that already worked out by the technical sub-committee.

IDENTICAL TERMS

Berlin, Jan. 25.
In terms almost identical with those employed by Italy, the German Government has replied to the British note on non-intervention in Spain. Germany agrees to forbid the despatch of volunteers to Spain simultaneously with other powers and suggests an agreement to withdraw all foreign participants in the war in Spain, including political agitators.

NORWEGIAN SHIP IN DISTRESS

Oslo, Jan. 25.
The plight of the crew of 27 board the Norwegian steamer "Veni," pounded by a fierce North-east gale, is now desperate. So badly damaged that her crew are helpless to control her, the freighter is constantly swept by great seas.

The crew is assembled on the bridge, as far as possible from the heaving waves.

The mail ship "Venus," another Norwegian vessel, which had effected a gallant rescue of the crew of the "Veni" a few hours before she answered the "Veni's" calls for assistance, has had to leave the sea. She is running short of fuel.

The "Jupiter," a vessel of the same make, is standing by the "Veni," however.

A message says that the "Veni," steaming towards the Norwegian coast under her own power.

LABOUR VOTE OF CENSURE

Dismissal Of Dockyard Workers

London, Jan. 26.
In the House of Commons this afternoon a vote of censure was moved by the Labour Opposition, in connection with the dismissal of dockyard workers following allegations of sabotage, on the ground that the men were dismissed without being informed of the offence of which they were accused and without being accorded an opportunity of making any defence.

COMMITTEE OF THREE AT GENEVA

MR. ANTHONY EDEN

COLONEL BECK

MR. RICHARD SANDLER

The Danzig problem, which has been causing some uneasiness in recent months, is being seriously examined at Geneva by the Foreign Ministers of Britain, Poland and Sweden. A new High Commissioner has to be appointed by the League and the latest message says that a Portuguese has been proposed as appointee.

RAW MATERIALS QUESTION

Non-League States To Be Invited

London, Jan. 25.
The League Council will to-day deal with the Assembly's recommendation that an International Committee should be established to study the question of world supplies of raw materials. It is anticipated that the recommendation will be adopted and that instructions will be given to the Secretariat to invite the participation of non-League States. There is reason to hope that the United States, Japan and Brazil will be willing to take part. It is not possible as yet to indicate the attitude of the German Government.

According to present arrangements, the Danzig and Alexandretta issues will come before the Council to-morrow. On the former, the Committee of Three consisting of Mr. Eden, Colonel Beck and Mr. Sandler are understood to have made considerable progress and were again engaged on the subject this morning. On the Alexandretta question it is expected that the Council will have before it a resolution setting forth the general lines of compromise and that the matter is likely to come up again at the next Council meeting in May.

HIGH COMMISSIONER IN DANZIG

Portuguese May Be Appointed

Geneva, Jan. 25.
The League Council during the present session must decide the question of High Commissioner of Danzig. The functions and power of the High Commissioner are practically settled, but no person has been appointed.

At first it was suggested that the post be held by a Dutchman, and now a Portuguese has been put forward as appointee.

REGENCY COUNCIL IN BRITAIN

London, Jan. 25.
The Prime Minister is bringing to the House of Commons to-day a message from the King asking for legislation to be passed establishing a Regency Council providing for the administration of the Government in the event of the King being out of the country or ill, or in the case of demise of the Crown, before the Heir to the Throne reaches the age of eighteen. Apart from any question relating to Princess Elizabeth, who at present is Heir to the Throne, it is pointed out that the Bill will clear the ground for any Empire visit whereupon the King may wish to embark.

JAPANESE WARSHIPS ON MOVE

Shanghai, Jan. 25.
It is reported that over fifty Japanese warships have left Formosan ports for Swatow, Hainan, and other places along the southern sea-board of China. The reason for the despatch of such a large number of warships is unknown, but the local authorities are watchful.

MOSCOW MASS TRIAL

Further Admissions Of Guilt

Moscow, Jan. 25.
Newspapers are to-day publishing violently worded resolutions demanding the death penalty for the men accused of leading a pro-Trotsky revolt plot, and who are at present on trial here. They include Gregory Sokolnikoff, former Ambassador to the Court of St. James, and Karl Radek, noted writer.

To-day's evidence was marked by further admissions of guilt on the part of several of the prisoners. There was a tense and dramatic scene when the aged M. Muraloff, former Commissar for war and chief lieutenant of the fugitive Trotsky, interrupted the testimony of another prisoner, Shestoff, who was relating unsuccessful attempts to murder Soviet officials. Indignantly the veteran shouted at Shestoff when the latter was discussing one case of attempted murder. "It's a lie," he claimed he himself had given the order for the assassination of the man in question.

In reply to the Public Prosecutor's question as to why, after denying charges, he had decided to plead guilty, Boguslavsky denied that his confession was due to the conditions of his imprisonment or any pressure or promise of alleviation of his fate. He said he had confessed because his conscience was pricked by "the criminal activities and rottenness of the Trotsky organisation."

PLOT FAILS

At another stage Shestoff told of a plan to wreck the Novobirsk coal mines with the help of a German engineer. The plot had failed, he said, because children had found the dynamite, had played with it, and were killed by its explosion.

He declared that a Russian engineer was murdered on his instructions because he had discovered the plot and had attempted to report it to the OGPU, or Secret Police.

At another time, he and his colleagues broke into a bank and stole 184,000 roubles to finance their campaign of sabotage.

HOTELS PREPARE FOR CORONATION

London, Jan. 25.
It is estimated that the leading London hotels are expending sums totalling about £200,000 on redecoration and remodelling in preparation for the Coronation, for which a great influx of visitors from all parts of the Empire and from foreign countries is anticipated.

World Record In Britain's Imports

London, Jan. 26.
The President of the Board of Trade, Mr. Walter Runciman, who during his private visit to the United States has been staying the week-end with President Roosevelt, in an interview with the press yesterday said the conversation he had had served to show the similarity of the general objectives of the United States and British policy.

HEAVY RAINFALL IN ENGLAND

Large Tracts Under Flood

London, Jan. 25.
Rains in many districts in England are already double the total normal January fall, causing widespread floods.

From Reading to Richmond, huge tracts of the Thames Valley resemble an inland sea. Swans are swimming around houses, looking in at the windows.

Eton playing-fields and the grounds of Windsor Castle are inundated.

In Kent, Sussex, Bedfordshire and the neighbourhood of Birmingham, many of the main roads are impassable.

The Dartmouth lifeboat effected a thrilling rescue of fifty-two men when the s.s. English Trader struck the rocks near Dartmouth. The rescue was carried out in pitch dark amidst raging seas.

THAMES RISING

London, Jan. 25.
There was no rain to-day in the London area, but the Thames is still rising and flood waters are spreading in the Thames Valley where large low-lying areas are under water. The flow of the river at Eddington was at the rate of 8700 million gallons in 24 hours, being an increase of 1200 million gallons on yesterday's figure. The average for January is 2,407 million, but in January last year the flow reached 9,000 million. That figure, however, was well below totals of great floods in the past.

NO ABATEMENT

Floods in the Thames Valley are widespread and show no signs as yet of abating. It is only in the lower reaches that much incon- venience has been caused. Although more extensive than for many years past, the flooding, except in a few cases, is shallow and is not likely to remain for long.

Little alteration in the levels had occurred to-day.

NEW POST FOR DR. YEN

Nanking, Jan. 25.
Dr. W. W. Yen left for Hangchow this morning. It is reported that there is every possibility of his being appointed Minister of Foreign Affairs.

Dr. Yen is a capable and experienced diplomat. He has represented China abroad for many years and is greatly honoured and respected.

U.S. FLOOD TOLL MOUNTS

Fourteen Drowned At Tennessee

Washington, Jan. 25.
Fatalities in the flood disaster in the Ohio and Mississippi River valleys have now increased to 80. Fourteen were drowned at Ripley, Tennessee, when a house in which they were taking refuge, toppled over and hurled the victims into the flood waters.

Three women and three children were drowned when a rescue boat capsized at Lepanto, Arkansas.

SUPER-FLOOD ON WAY

Memphis, Jan. 25.
As the toll of death and misery is mounting in the Ohio Valley, fears are expressed that the greatest floods in the history of the Mississippi River are inevitable.

Colonel Eugene Reynolds, District Chief Engineer, has predicted that the super-flood now on its way will reach 55 feet of water in Memphis before the water now in sight from Ohio moves out.

A message from Columbus, Ohio, states that 850 troops have been ordered to proceed to Louisville where martial law has been declared in order to combat panic and pestilence.

RUBBER EXPORTS QUOTA FIXED

London, January 26.
The International Rubber Committee fixed the exportable quota for the third quarter at 85 per cent.

The Committee reaffirmed their desire to maintain at all times a supply of rubber adequate for consumers' needs. They realised that producing territories, particularly those dependent on immigration labour, must necessarily take steps to advance and organise themselves for increased production and it was with these considerations in mind that they fixed the permissible exports for the third quarter.

The Committee's announcement had a tonic effect on bulls who latterly were rather dormant in the London market and, with sellers retreating hastily, prices advanced sharply.

MOTOR STRIKE DEADLOCK

G.M.C. Head Refuses Invitation

New York, Jan. 25.
The motor strike remains deadlocked. Mr. Sloan, President of General Motors Corporation, refused the invitation of Miss Frances Perkins, Secretary for Labour, to confer with the strike leaders in Washington.

He declares that he cannot negotiate while sit-down strikers continue to be in occupation of the factories.

CORNISH MINERS REACH SAFETY

Comrade Risks His Life In Rescue Effort

London, Jan. 25.
Three Cornish miners who had been trapped for 49 hours over 300 feet below the surface in the Wheal Reeth tin mine near Penzance reached safety last night after a comrade had risked his life by swimming under water to a shaft in which they were imprisoned.

The miners had worked continuously at the pumps, lowering the level of water which rushed into the mine early Saturday.

OMNIBUSES FOR EVACUATION

London, Jan. 25.
Attention was called in the House of Commons to a report of the Health Organisation of the League of Nations that 200 motor omnibuses are needed by the Spanish Government to assist in the evacuation of the civil population in Madrid.

Lord Cranborne, Under-Secretary of Foreign Affairs, said he understood the request of the Spanish Government was on the agenda of the present Council session. No difficulty would be placed in the way of purchase here of omnibuses for this purpose.

S'HAH PREPARES FOR SOCCER INTERPORT

Several Changes In Team Are Expected

With the Interport against Hong Kong less than three weeks away, the second Trial match will be played this Sunday at the Stadium between a trial side of the Shanghai Football Association and a China National Amateur Athletic Federation trial side, says the "North China Daily News" of January 22.

The withdrawal of Suen, "Darky" Chen and Feng from the Trial side on Sunday and possibly from the actual Interport has made it necessary for the S.F.A. to call upon the services of Belinky, Cochran, and Neubourg, with the last two as reserves. Bell, who was originally down as a reserve, is to take "Darky" Chen's place at left-half, while M. Belinky will play centre-forward instead of K. S. Suen.

Y. Y. Feng's withdrawal does not affect the team as he was a reserve. With Sgt. Yates' inability to make the trip to Hong Kong, owing to pressure of duties, Vical has also been brought up from the reserves to play right-back.

REVISED INTERPORT XI

The following is the revised side chosen by the S.F.A. to play on Sunday:

Bolleson (A.S.F.); Vical (Lustiano) and Marcal (A.S.F.); J. Ward (A.S.F.), Gash (S.M.P., captain), and Bell (A.S.F.); Taylor (L.R.), Sharples (L.R.), Belinky (S.R.C.), Hossuet (A.S.F.), and Jim Ward (A.S.F.).

Reserves—Lt. J. F. Whiteing (L.R.), Robostoff (A.S.F.), Greenberg (S.R.C.), Jack (S.F.C.), Neubourg (S.R.C.), Cochran (S.R.C.).

MAY ACCOMPANY CHINESE TEAM

Although "Darky" Chen, K. S. Suen, and Y. Y. Feng, the three Tung Hwa players, who were asked to play for the Interport Trial team on Sunday, have declined the invitation of the S.F.A. on the grounds that they would not be able to get away to Hong Kong for business reasons, they may accompany the Chinese Interport eleven. An official of the China National Amateur Athletic Federation, who are making arrangements for the Chinese Interport fixture, said that the Federation would try and make arrangements for the three to be given leave by their firms, with whom the final say now rests.

THREE GAMES

The team ultimately selected will be leaving Shanghai in the Stuttgart on February 5. Three matches will be played in Hong Kong, the first will be the Interport, which will take place on Thursday, Feb. 11; the second will be against a Chinese side; and the third and last match against the United Services.

The Chinese Interport fixture will take place a little later. The Interport match, between the Shanghai Chinese side and the Hong Kong Chinese side, will be played on February 15, the C.N.A.A.F. announced yesterday. Two other matches will also be played, the second on February 17, and the third on February 20.

STRONG RUGBY TEAM

Hong Kong Favoured For Interport

Reports have it that Hong Kong's Rugby football team is the strongest the Colony has had for some years, and though Shanghai will naturally take the news with a pinch of salt—it being the usual thing for both parties to give optimistic reports of their teams' chances—there can be no doubt that the Shanghai Rugby Union Football Club will find Hong Kong a 'hard' team to beat, says the "North China Daily News" of January 22.

The biggest claim to support the report of Hong Kong's strength is the fact that Hong Kong have this year won the Triangular Trophy, competed for between the Hong Kong Football Club, the Navy, and the Army annually.

HONOURS EVEN

The Shanghai Rugby Union Football Club will be meeting the 1st XV of the Hong Kong Football Club on Thursday, February 11, at the Candelione. The Hong Kong team will arrive here on February 10 in the Messageries Maritimes ss. Eridan.

The Interport match this year is of particular significance since both Clubs have won the "Saker Shield" five times, the results being as follows:—

- 1923-24 S.R.U.F.C. 5-3 (H).
- 1925-26 S.R.U.F.C. 18-3 (S).
- 1927-28 H.F.C. 6-3 (H).
- 1928-29 H.F.C. 12-6 (H).
- 1929-30 S.R.U.F.C. 5-0 (S).
- 1930-31 H.F.C. 21-3 (H).
- 1932-33 H.F.C. 16-5 (S).
- 1933-34 H.F.C. 6-3 (H).
- 1934-35 S.R.U.F.C. 17-11 (S).
- 1935-36 S.R.U.F.C. 8-6 (H).

H.K. RUGBY TEAM

Sixteen Players For North

The Interport rugby match between Hong Kong and Shanghai will be played in Shanghai on February 11. The Colony team will leave for the North on February 7.

The following have accepted the Club's invitation to travel to Shanghai:—

J. F. Whitham (full-back), K. A. Minar (wing-three-quarter), H. van Leeuwen (wing-three-quarter), W. E. Grove (centre-three-quarter), H. D. Bidwell (centre-three-quarter), G. K. Chadwick (wing-three-quarter), A. R. Butcher (stand-off-half) (vice-captain), J. L. Bonnar (scrum-half), A. F. Walkden (front-row forward) (captain), W. E. Peers (hooker), E. P. Humphreys (front-row forward), A. W. Holden (second-row forward), I. H. Bradford (second-row forward), B. O'M. Deane (wing-forward), K. A. Watson (middle-of-back-row), N. E. Clark (wing-forward), J. Redman (wing-forward).

M.C.C. MATCH DRAWN

Adelaide, Jan. 26.

Heavy overnight rain made play to-day very unlikely and on an examination of the wicket after lunch, it was decided to abandon the match between the M.C.C. and South Australia as a draw. Scores up to Saturday were M.C.C. 301 and South Australia 194 for four wickets.

Reuter

FILIPINO BOXER'S PRIVATE LIFE

Should Be Known As "Smile" Instead Of "Small"

ANOTHER PANCHITO VILLA

"Smile" Montana, five feet four inches of brown-skinned urbanity and cheerfulness, arrived at Southampton in the Aquitania on December 30 at the end of his 5,000 miles trip across America and the Atlantic to fight in London.

Montana, whose real name is Benjamin Gan, is called "Small," but I prefer "Smile," for that is the biggest thing about him, writes a Home correspondent. It is broad and infectious, and rarely absent from his face. He is sure to become popular in Britain.

He is accompanied by Johnny Rogers, as manager, and Victoriano Fuentes, a fellow Filipino, who has been his trainer for five years. Montana was modest but composed as a large party greeted him on board the liner, and subjected him to a rapid fusillade of questions.

MEETING FORMER CHAMPION

His smile became broadest when he was introduced to Jimmy Wilde, a former fly-weight champion of the world, who lost his title in America to that other famous Filipino, Panchito Villa.

It was obvious that Montana had a great admiration for the "Welsh Wizard," and he needed no prompting to tell us that he was born in La Carlota, the same town as Villa. Montana, 24 years of age, has been boxing for only five years, four of which have been spent in America.

He is entirely self-taught, and entered the professional ranks without coaching or experience in amateur ranks. He received less than £2 for his first fight, but will get over £3,000 for his appearance at Wembley.

In his short career, Montana has built up an impressive record. He became something of a public hero in the Philippines, where he had forty of his 115 contests, and when he left for the United States his countrymen were confident that he would emulate Villa.

"GREAT TO BE HERE"

In America his greatest performances have been against Midget Wolgast, a former world champion, whom he beat in two of three clashes.

It is through a victory over Wolgast that he claims the world title, and is recognized as such in California and other States, although Lynch is the genuine article according to the British Boxing Board of Control.

Montana has been married for three years, and has a son. He expressed regret at being forced to

SEAFORTH'S WIN "FRIENDLY"

R.A.S.C. Outplayed

In a friendly football match played at Bookunpoo yesterday afternoon, the Seaforth Highlanders "B" Company defeated the Royal Army Service Corps by 7 goals to nil.

In the first half McGuigan, McLeod and McKenzie each scored a goal.

The goal scorers in the second half were McGuigan (3) and McLeod.

The Seaforths were much too good for the Service Corps and they attacked most of the time.

The teams were as follows:

Seaforth Highlanders "B" Company:—Autren; Webster, Speirs; Harper, Cook, Williamson; McKenzie, McAloon, McLeod, McGuigan, and Matheson.

R.A.S.C.:—Cpl. Hughes; Lt. Cpl. Foreman, Hodgkinson; Banbridge, Easterbrook, Dearing; Cpl. Hayter, Foreythe, Lt. Cpl. Westgate, Lt. Cpl. Morgan and Lt. Cpl. Smith.

leave the child, but after a moment of seriousness he again beamed upon his audience, and exclaimed: "But, see! It is great to be here. This place is going to suit me grand."

Montana frankly admits that he does not punch with great weight. He knows that in Lynch he will be meeting a tough and powerful opponent, but he says: "You can stand on me giving Lynch a good fight."

[The fight ended in a win for Lynch on points, giving the full distance of 15 rounds.]

BITSY GRANT'S FINE WIN

Donald Budge Goes Down Fighting

TWO TITLES IN A DAY

For the second time in two years the diminutive Bryan "Bitty" Grant to-day took the measure of America's second ranking singles player: the formidable Donald Budge, in the final round of the annual Dixie Tournament at Tampa, Florida.

The match proved Grant, as ever, the master strategist. Offsetting Budge's advantage in height and reach, and his undoubted power in service and volley, Grant's superb placement and variety of strokes won him the match, by scores of 4-6, 6-3, 6-3, 2-6, and 6-2.

Narrowly defeated in the initial set, Grant thereafter concentrated on avoiding Budge's masterful forehand. His success was evidenced by the second and third set scores of 6-3.

SENSATIONAL WIN

Budge saved himself from elimination in the fourth set by coming back strongly to take the tilt, 6-2, but in the fifth and deciding set Grant was once again his master, and the 6-2 count gave the young Albatian the tournament championship and one of the most sensational American tennis victories of the year.

Throughout the match Grant sacrificed speed to accuracy, and with Budge's smashes, lobbing the ball into almost unreturnable positions time and again.

In the final set Budge's service broke and this, combined with the continued steadiness of Grant's play, contributed to the downfall of the former.

RANKINGS SCRAMBLED

It was worthy of note that the result of the match virtually "scrambled" the American singles rankings. Because of Wilmer Allison's inactivity, Budge had been generally accorded the No. 1 position, with Frankie Parker in second place. Grant's defeat of Parker in the semi-final round of the Dixie tourney and his mastery of Budge apparently forces him into consideration for the Davis Cup team.

Grant shared another victory as he and Wayne Sabin, in the finals of the doubles competition, defeated Parker and Walter Seiler. Scores were 6-8, 6-4, 6-3. Sabin, however, carried the brunt of the match as Grant was obviously exhausted from his singles match.

N.C.D.N. GREENS WIN TROPHY

Basket Ball Match With W.S.S. Reds

The N.C.D.N. Greens won the Reid Basketball Challenge Trophy on January 18 by defeating the W.S.S. Reds by 41-16 to keep their record unblemished.

From the standpoint of competition, the league has been unfortunate this season in having only two strong teams. Both the Greens and Erin Villa have won as they pleased in every game except when they play each other.

In the match which gave the Greens the championship, Vera Prince took scoring honours by collecting seven field goals for fourteen points, while M. Nosoff was outstanding for the Reds, contributing eight points to a losing cause. Doreen Parkhill had a good evening in scoring nine points for the Greens.

SAVING FOR OLYMPICS

Shanghai Japanese Get Ready

Looking forward to 1940 when they will visit Tokyo to attend the Twelfth Olympic Games, almost 100 local Japanese residents have begun saving $3.50 a month, which will enable them to defray travelling and expenses in the Japanese capital, the "Shanghai Nippo" said on January 18.

The scheme, evolved by the "Nippo," will net $157 by the middle of 1940. This sum, under arrangements made by the newspaper, will be sufficient to finance a two-weeks trip.

The monthly sums will be deposited at the Shanghai Bank under a club membership arrangement and will remain the depositor's property until the party leaves Shanghai.

Both Optimistic

Yoshimura likewise is a fighter, has won most of his half-hundred fights by knock-outs and has been beaten but four times, twice on close decisions. Neither Poong nor Yoshimura expects their bout on Saturday to go the full distance, an attitude which promises thrills and action to what is expected to be a very large turnout of spectators.

In Billy Gray of the 15th Infantry, Tientsin, Jock Creighton, British welter of this city, has a hard customer for the American soldier is a puncher of deadly power, as Creighton knows. Creighton, lanky, shifty and still speedy despite his many years in boxing, gained a close decision over Gray in their previous meeting, but had to overcome a considerable lead the soldier piled up by flooring Creighton early in the fight.

Saturday's initial main event will afford Shanghai its first opportunity of seeing Gray in action. He is in tip-top shape through weeks of training with the Fourth U.S. Marines here—Creighton is expected to be fully extended on Saturday.

Youth is pitted against experience in the eight-round semi-final between "Jinx" Baker of the Marines and Young Alde of Manila. Half-a-dozen preliminaries, one of six rounds and the other of four, complete the Auditorium's programme.

Shanghai Boxing Comes Into Its Own

Boxing comes into its own on Saturday afternoon with the presentation by the Auditorium of a programme headed by a double main event which will have considerable bearing upon the bantam and welterweight championships of China says the "North China Daily News" of January 21.

Poong Wai-yin (Little Thunderstorm), the Chinese boxer from Singapore, is matched in the second of the two ten-round main events with Fumio Yoshimura, a hard-hitting bantamweight who has earned quite a reputation in Japan, Korea, Manchuria and North China. Poong actually is a flyweight and will be conceding probably half-a-dozen pounds to his opponent.

This weight difference, however, is not giving the Chinese any concern, for in his comparatively long ring career Poong often has met and beaten bigger men. Poong has fought in the Straits Settlements, Philippines, India, French Indo-China and Siam a total of 94 times. His first 21 bouts, as an amateur, he won on knock-outs. Since then he has swelled his bag of knock-outs to 57, won 34 other contests on points, and earned one draw. Poong has been beaten twice, once in 1931 and again last year, the latter being a decision he dropped to Hanada last Summer.

"I find that 'Bisurated' Magnesia taken after most of my meals is the only thing that keeps me free from pain and discomfort, and I take it regularly. I often prescribe it for my patients, and have had very good results."

(Signed) Dr. H. G. M.A., M.R.C.S., L.R.C.P.

THE English doctor is the most conservative medical man in the world, and when he not only recommends but personally uses a remedy there can be no more convincing proof of its efficacy. This doctor is but one of many who constantly advise the use of "Bisurated" Magnesia in all cases of indigestion. Most stomach trouble is caused by acidity, and the reason why "Bisurated" Magnesia gives quick relief is that it instantly neutralizes excess acid and soothes, heals and strengthens the inflamed stomach lining. Nothing could be simpler, safer or surer. If you suffer with indigestion or stomach disorder of any kind put your faith in European science and make an end of your troubles by taking "Bisurated" Magnesia after eating or whenever pain is felt.

SUNDERLAND BEATEN AT OLD TRAFFORD Big Improvement In Home Attack

Forty-seven thousand spectators at Old Trafford might have been excused for wondering why Manchester United are struggling to get away from the bottom of the League. Against Sunderland, the champions and serious contenders for the honour again, they gave a capital display of football which, in the first half, especially, was as good as anything seen at the ground for some seasons. They passed and inter-passed with a degree of skill that was surprising; and they over-played Sunderland because they also varied their game with more open movements.

United's brilliant victory was well on the way when they had scored twice in the first seven minutes. It is not often Old Trafford crowds are treated to a whole-line movement which produces a goal. Here it was exhibited in a manner that for speed and skill left the Sunderland defence standing. McKay started it with a clever pass to Lang, the latter turned the ball inside to Bamford, and the Welsh international went forward a stride or two and shot across the goal face. Bryant, running in, caught the ball and passed inside to Mutch, who steered the ball into the net.

Again it was a clear-cut move which led to the second goal, two minutes later, and thousands of supporters who had been left waiting at the other side of Trafford Swing Bridge while it was closed to allow the passage of a small ship could only bemoan the ill-luck which caused them to miss the goals. Bamford had a shot turned aside for a corner kick; Lang curled his centre, and Bryant, running in, headed through as the Sunderland defence stood still. Probably some 10,000 people missed these two goals because of the exasperating experience of the closed bridge.

Mutch got the ball in the net again after 57 minutes but was whistled offside. Some think that Mutch is too often penalised because he is so quick to the ball; that because he seizes an opening and gets there in a flash he is having his enterprise unrewarded.

Two Men Injured
Bryant and Bamford, in turn, were later injured, the wingman rather seriously, and it was not until these mishaps that Sunderland became a force to be reckoned with. They got on top of United in all save the penalty area. Here United's fullbacks stood firm until seven minutes from the end when Carter zig-zagged his way through, turned the ball to Gurney, accepted a quick return pass, and placed rather than kicked the ball into the net. Sunderland's "supremacy" lasted only for twenty minutes of the closing stages. Before that it was United's game; they dictated the policy, and it was principally due to the dominance of the half-backs, Brown, Winterbottom, and Whalley. Throughout they were excellent. Brown a tireless worker, Winterbottom a stopper centre-half whom Vose will not so readily remove, and Whalley a plodding left half-back who faced Carter with no sense of inferiority complex.

Roughton Magnificent
Behind them Roughton, the best back on the field, did magnificent work, and Redwood, too, played soundly while Breen—well, United supporters might well ask whether there is a better goalkeeper in the country to-day McKay and Lang were a good left wing. McKay has, by his skill, turned an attack of indifference into one of danger. He is always placing the ball to advantage, and that is the secret of United's greater skill and thrust in the forward line. Bamford was a hard worker, and Mutch and Bryant frequently were dangerous.

Mapson kept goal well for Sunderland, but in potential champions one would look for better defenders than Hall and Collin. Neither impressed, and Clark, centre half-back, was not certain with his clearances. Thomson and Hastings were sound on the flanks, and the attack, which promised so much in midfield and then failed against the resolute tackling of the United half-backs and defenders, was best served by Carter, Duns, and Gallagher.

NEWMAN'S NARROW VICTORY

Interesting Week's Billiard Match Concluded

There was a very interesting finish to the week's match by time which Davis, the professional champion of the United Kingdom, and Newman played at Thurston's Hall in Leicester Square, Newman winning by 33 points.

Although these players, with others, had been engaged in the snooker pool tournament for much of the first half of the season their billiard form had not suffered in any way, and this was emphasized by the big averages which were returned. It had been shown before that a lead of 1,000 points or more at any except the final stages of a match between such highly skilled players represented very little, and once again it was shown how quickly a player who appeared to be losing the match could recover in the course of a short time sufficiently to win the game.

When the match was continued Davis was leading by 625, and he increased his advantage in the afternoon when he scored 968 in four completed visits to the table for an average of 242, while Newman made 571 for an average of 143, figures which convey the very high quality of the play. Newman began by increasing a break of 197 (unfinished) to 218. Most of Davis's points were made in the course of a very fine break of 804, in which his all-round skill was most pronounced. Davis scored by a variety of methods which made the break extremely interesting to watch. Davis also made a run of 132. Although he was outpointed Newman played as well, his touch being splendid in a break of 443. As the sessions lasted for only an hour and a half there was little time for more, and although Newman played out time with a break of 101 (unfinished) Davis then held the commanding lead of 1,022.

Remarkable Play

The scores at the interval were:—Davis, 8,213; Newman (in play), 7,191.

The play at night if anything was more remarkable still, and it was an exceptional achievement on the part of Newman to turn such a big deficit in so short a time into a winning advantage. Actually in an hour and a half the players between them scored 1,409 points, and of these Newman made 1,232 for an average of 176, while Davis made only 177 for an average of 25. The difference in the form was that while Newman made excellent use of several of his chances, Davis was able to make only small use of most of his opportunities.

Beginning by increasing his break of 101 (unfinished) to 199, Newman, then gave a very fine display while making a break of 525. Newman scored at a fast pace, as he had to do to stand any chance of winning the match, and although he scored freely by all-round methods he made quick progress with a run of 79 cannons. Newman added a break of 70 and Davis made his only run of note of the session, a break of 152, which included a run of 37 cannons. That was really Davis's last chance, although Newman at that point appeared to possess only a small chance of winning the game. Maintaining his fine form, however, Newman scored steadily, and sometimes quickly, to make another very fine break of 529 which included runs of 35, 24, and 33 close cannons and when eventually he failed Davis had only time to go to the table and make a red winner when time was called.

The result was:—Newman, 8,423; Davis, 8,390.

James Exploded Offside Trap

Skill That Redeemed
Match

Arsenal 4 Chelsea 1

It was fortunate that Alex James was in the Highbury game, blurring Chelsea's defence in the most outrageous way and delighting the eye with a first-class showing of his well-known repertoire, writes a Home correspondent. Otherwise, the strongest impression left would have been one of nastiness.

It is time these so-called "local Derbys" were played as games and not as battles. Things went on which were a disgrace to football. Unnecessary vigour, persistent tripping, and a whole string of petty, often childish, fouls drove the sporting spirit to the wall and very nearly out of the match.

Davidson and Mitchell had their names taken—but let us not dwell on the game's bad side, but praise instead the genius of James, which finally, lifted it to the heights.

JAMES EVERYWHERE

It was James who piloted Arsenal to a 4-1 victory, overcame Chelsea's spilling tactics, and exploded their offside trap.

Chelsea had the lead from a goal by Oatton, shot after one of the few good moves made by a weak attack, and were exploiting the offside law for all they were worth. Milne and Davidson had each put the ball in the net and had their shots ruled illegal. It was then that James decided to pull out something the others hadn't got.

Three times he burst through, and by great dribbling, cheeky feints, and the old swinging-leg trick, emerged alone, with the ball, in Chelsea's penalty area. He ended the first venture with a shot which just missed. The other two he completed with immaculate side-flicks which presented Drake and Davidson with unmissable goals.

BERLIN SHARE MARKET

Berlin, Jan. 25.

The sharemarket began this week in a quiet way but prices on the whole indicate that there is no lack of healthy signs. The reserved attitude displayed by the majority of the buying public was merely due to the inclination to wait the declaration which the Reichsbank will make on the 30th inst.

The investing public showed a certain amount of interest in the various issues but business remained restricted. The speech of the French Premier, M. Leon Blum, did not, contrary to expectation, have any effect on the market.

German Petroleum showed a slight advance whilst Electricities were weak. Call Money was quoted at 2 3/8 to 2 5/8. Young Loan declined to 102.50 and Reichsbank also declined to 102.50. German Dye Trusts were unchanged at 168.12, while Salzwedder Potash was unquoted. United Steel Works were 117.87 and German Mineral Oils 140.12. Siemens & Halske at 200.80 and Bemberg Rayon declined to 109.

MERCHANTS OPPOSE BUSINESS TAX

Canton, Jan. 25.

Strong opposition to the new business tax schedule was presented to-day in a petition to the Kwangtung provincial authorities praying that the rate should be rescinded owing to its excessive nature.

The new tax is based on the amount of business transacted and is considered many times heavier than the old tax abolished by Finance Commissioner T. L. Soong, who is now on sick leave in Shanghai. In the meantime,

JAPANESE BANK SEEKS INCREASE OF ITS CAPITAL

Margin For Negotiations Demanded

Negotiations necessary for a virtual twenty-fold increase in the capital of the Shanghai Bank, a Japanese institution, are now being conducted between Mr. Kasel Hasekawa, its president, and representatives of the Bank of Chosen, the "Shanghai Nichi-Nichi" said on January 21.

The approval of the Ministries of Foreign Affairs and of Finance towards this step was secured by Mr. Hasekawa last year, the paper reported.

Under tentative plans, the bank's capital will be increased from $100,000 to $2,000,000, according to the daily. This will enable the institution to lend against real estate security.

The creation of such a bank, the "Nichi-Nichi" pointed out, is being sought by local Japanese industrialists and real estate owners, who have sent Mr. Shigeru Matsumoto, president of their association, to Tokyo to engage in lobbying, during the present session of the Diet, in favour of legislation necessary for that purpose.

the merchants requested that the old tax, based on capital levy be in force.

FIVE MILLION IDLE IN AMERICA

Washington, Jan. 25.
 A total permanent unemployment figure of 5,000,000, even when prosperity is completely restored, was to-day predicted by Mr. Harry Hopkins, head of the Works Progress Administration here when speaking before the House of Representatives Appropriations sub-committee.

"The year 1937 holds promise of a figure of 6,500,000 to 7,000,000 unemployed," said Mr. Hopkins. Acting Budget Director Mr. Daniel Bell, told the same committee that relief and recovery outlays from 1934 to 1937 had amounted to $12,611,000,000.

FOREIGN MONEY IN UNITED STATES
 London, Jan. 25.
 It was stated in reply to a Parliamentary question that estimates recently compiled by the United States Department of Commerce showed that on December 31, 1935, investments in the United States by Britain stood at 1,774 million dollars, by France 232 million dollars and by Canada 1,000 million.

Investments by Italy and Germany were not known separately. Between the date mentioned and September 30, 1936, Italy and Germany had on balance sold securities to the value of 1,409,000 and 1,810,000 dollars respectively in the latter period.

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH ANNUAL MEETING

The Chairman was supported by Messrs. E. G. Phillips (Hon. Secretary), R. Dormer (Hon. Treasurer), the Church wardens and other members of the Church Council. Addressing the meeting, the Vicar said:—

The chief cause for thanks giving, I think, this year, has been the very noticeable increase in the size of the congregations. Our communicants have now reached the record figure of 3,051. I believe it is true to say that many people, because of the distressing events of last year in Europe, as well as the growing sense of futility of life without God, are entering our Churches again.

The chief events of the year was the Roman Fair, of which Mr. Dawson and Mr. Kirby were the energetic secretaries. We were honoured by the presence of His Excellency and Lady Caldecott. The public patronised us so well that we raised more money than ever before except at the Thanksgiving Day last year. Over a thousand people visited the Fair and I want to thank again all those who in any way contributed to its success.

In the course of the year I have officiated at fifty baptisms, fourteen weddings and eleven funerals, and in the earlier part of the year the Bishop confirmed twenty-one candidates, nine of them from St. Andrew's.

PHILANTHROPIC WORK

I am glad to say that this year has seen a great increase in our benevolent and philanthropic work. We have been able to expend $1,067.27 on deserving cases and I thank our own people and some members of the public who have made this possible. I have personally interviewed our 300 cases of distress. Similarly, we have helped again this year with the Kowloon Street Sleepers' Shelter, St. Andrew's Club and St. Andrew's Rover Scout Crew being responsible for two nights a week.

One of our most encouraging enterprises this year was the Sunday evening open air services held in the illuminated grounds of the Church throughout the summer months. I am hoping that we shall have them again this year.

FINANCIAL POSITION

Financially, we are in a satisfactory position and we have this year, a balance on the right side of $798.21, having met all our expenses including $1,200 for property repairs and $1,850 for the Diocese. The balance is not too little or too much and I trust that all our members will give as generously this year as they have in the past. Especially would I appeal for new members of the Free-will Offering Scheme, which is the basis of our Church finance.

GOVERNMENT THANKED

This year we have three things for which to thank the Government, and we do so very warmly. The first is that we have been granted our own playing fields in King's Park. Two grounds have been granted—one for hockey and one for tennis. We share these with the Central British Association. The second is that 15 feet of very valuable land has been given us between our Hall and the old Central British School. This will ensure that no building can be erected within that distance of the Hall. The third is that permission has been granted for us to have water from the Government mains for use in the Hall for convenience. The price charged for the alternative method was previously altogether prohibitive and could never have been considered.

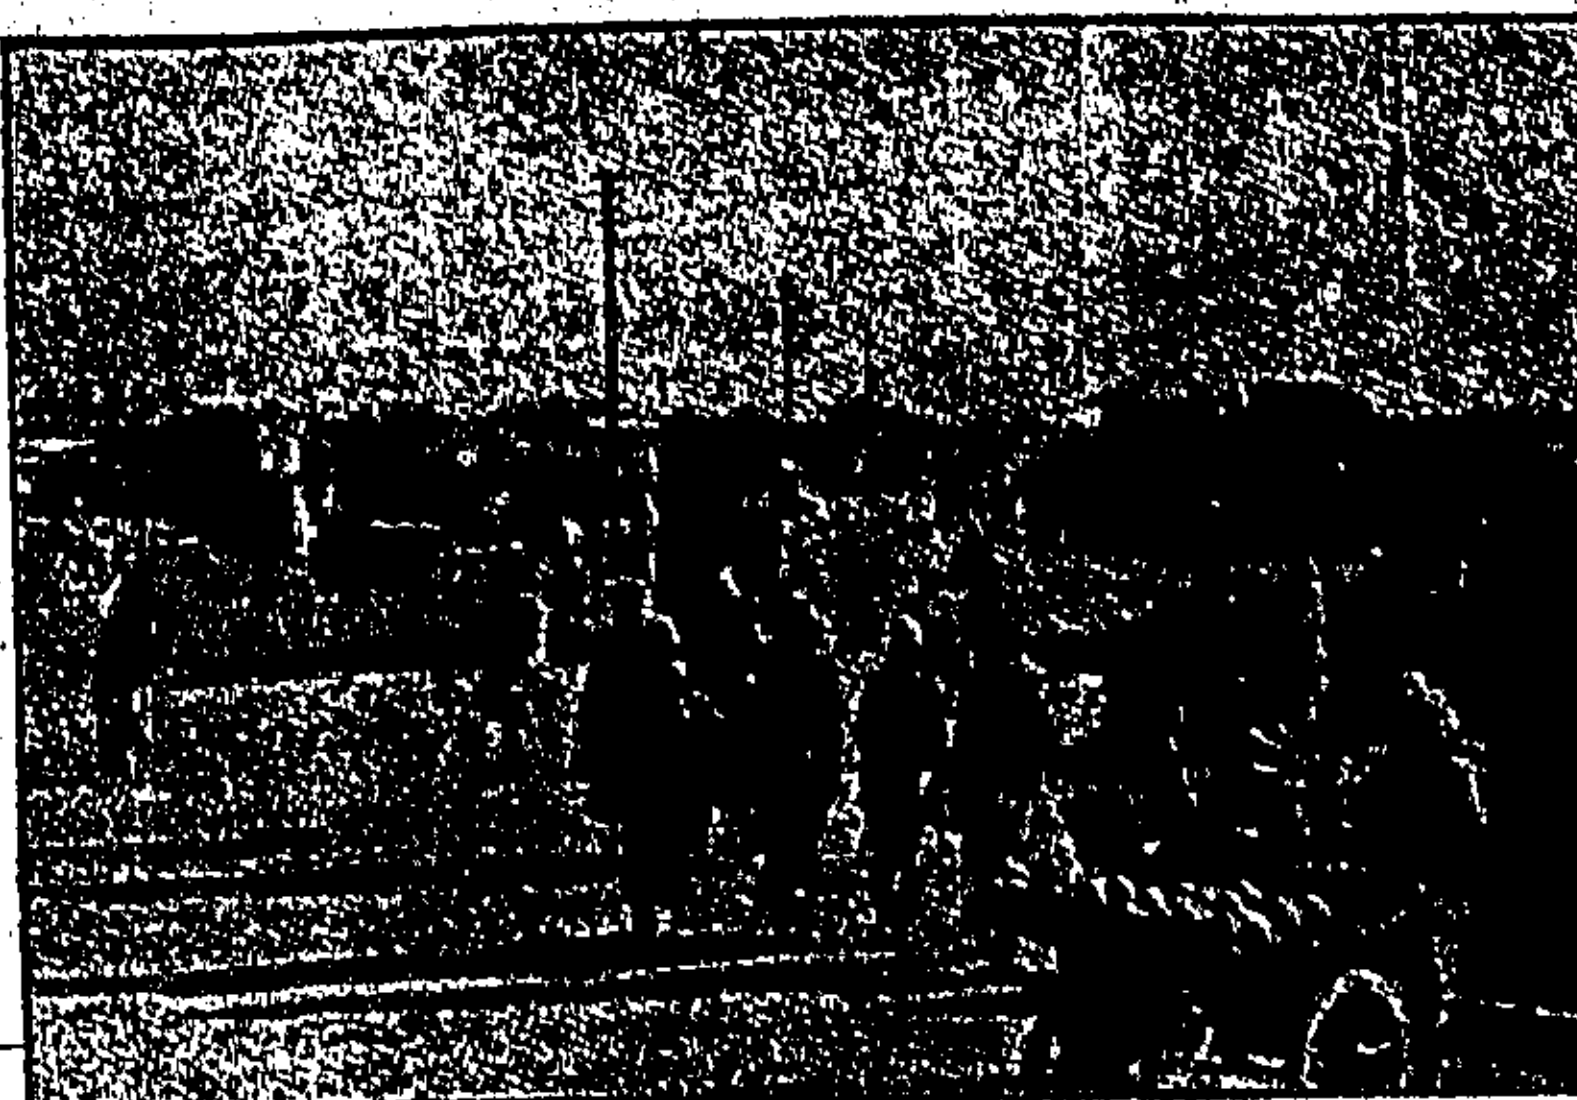

I am very pleased to be able to tell you that in addition to our Benevolent work we have been able to assist the following: Earl Haig's Fund, Ministering Children's League, V.D.M.A., British and Foreign Bible Society, Christ Church, Kowloon Tong, Victoria Home and Orphanage, C. M. S. Lepers Hospital, Pankh, Diocesan Expenses Fund, St. Dunstan's, Mr. Wittenbach's rural work, and the Salvation Army.

Our annual united demonstration of Christian witness was held on Good Friday opposite the Alhambra Theatre and I am very glad to say that many of the Christian Churches, institutions, and schools of Kowloon took part.

CHURCH OFFICERS

During 1936 several of our Church officers left the Colony or went on leave amongst the former were Dr. H. D. Matthews, Mr. O. B. Raven, Mr. W. H. C. Robinson, Major C. M. Primer, and Mrs. Major C. M. Primer, and Mrs. H. D. Sawyer, Mrs. A. J. Fraser.

Scene Of Earthquake

The building of a new city is progressing rapidly on the scene of the May 1935 earthquake as shown in the above photograph of Anderson Road, Quetta, where the 'quake survivors are settling down again.

Another important wireless-telephone service will be established, probably already at the beginning of February, connecting Shanghai with Hong Kong via Canton. Tests for this circuit likewise have been successful.

The tests on the American circuit have been totally satisfactory, according to officials of the Shanghai Telephone Company. Within the last few days, conversations have been conducted with New York with excellent results. In one instance it took a Shanghai man less than a minute to get through to New York and the subsequent conversation was clear and uninterrupted.

These tests were conducted through the Chinese station in Chapel. The manner of communication involves the superimposing of a voice-frequency apparatus on existing equipment.

Miss W. Robinson, Mrs. Bird, and Mr. P. J. Hamilton. The monthly Holy Communion Fellowship Breakfasts have been continued throughout the year and have been as popular as ever. I would, though, like to see more senior people present. The younger people come splendidly.

In the middle of the year I received the new appointment of chaplain to the Church of England personnel at the Royal Air Force Station at Kai Tak.

FELLOWSHIP OF YOUTH

A very gratifying feature of the work this year has been the progress that has been made by the Fellowship of Youth under Miss Robinson and Mrs. Bird.

We have been grateful to Mrs. Reid for so kindly becoming leader of the Women's Fellowship after Mrs. Fordham left the Colony, to Miss J. M. Smith for succeeding Miss Armstrong as Secretary of the V.D.M.A. and to Mrs. Stevenson for taking over the Free-will Offering Scheme for Mrs. Evans who did such good work. To Miss Steel too, and Miss I. Woolley I should like to express my thanks for so kindly taking charge of the Sunday schools during my wife's absence.

Other things I should like to mention are the formation of a Rover Scout Crew under Mr. Dormer, and the broadcasting of our morning services owing to the co-operation of the Cathedral.

Finally I would like to take this opportunity of expressing my thanks to the Bishop and clergy and ministers of the Colony who have occupied the pulpit or taken services for me, to all the Church officers, organisation leaders and to every member of the Church for their co-operation throughout the year, and to the Press for the invaluable help which it so willingly gives.

I pray that, again this year, working together in the Greatest Cause, God has committed to us men on earth, we may reach out to win broken or indifferent lives for Him, to continue our work of philanthropy and to be a mighty power for good here in Kowloon. (Applause.)

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

The following officers were elected:—

Vicar's warden, Mr. F. W. Stapleton; People's warden, Mr. A. C. Jeffreys.

World Awaits Hitler's Speech

Referring to the speech made by Mr. Anthony Eden in the House of Commons last week when the Foreign Secretary made an appeal to Germany for co-operation, Sir Frederick said that Mr. Eden's tone changed to one of greater seriousness when he passed from his review of the international situation and appealed to Germany.

Sir Frederick dealt with economic collaboration, political appeasement and the present universal expenditure of arms and added that the power that had staked international credit for mechanical power was Germany.

Sir Frederick quoted Mr. Eden's speech at length and pointed out that Mr. Eden and M. Blum, the French Premier, had worked together on the same lines to show that the Anglo-French co-operation was not only with a view to keeping the door open but to allow Germany to re-enter the fold.

Mr. Blum welcomed Mr. Eden's speech but the French Premier paid special regard to Hitler's preference to make pacts with one nation only and pointed out that France refused to do anything in conflict with the League of Nations; driving a wedge between England and France was impossible.

The vicious circle of argument and counter-argument still continued, added Sir Frederick, but Great Britain was not caught up so closely as some of the other nations in this circle.

Mr. Eden's speech was not harsh but an appeal for peace. He appealed to Germany for co-operation, the alternative of which was isolation with grave consequences to follow.

Population Panic

Mr. D. Victor Glass, a leading member of the Eugenics Society, told the Educational Association's Conference that unless there is a change our population will soon reach its peak level, and after a transition period of slow decline it will begin to fall off at the rate of 24 per cent. in every generation.

At that rate of decline it will be reduced to about 15 per cent. of its previous size in just over 200 years.

Sir William Beveridge thought that efforts to increase the population in Germany and Italy had been comparative failures. In Italy the reward for having children was about the value of a dog licence in this country. (Laughter.)

Professor Fawcett characterised the Income-tax allowance for children as "a bad joke on the part of the Chancellor of the Exchequer" and said that it did not account for much more than a penny in the £1 in the cost of raising a child.

Mr. H. Gittins, F. W. Stapleton, R. Baldwin, T. O. Roger Woo, J. V. Ramsay and C. W. McGowan.

Sidemen: Messrs. R. Baldwin, H. Gittins, H. J. Webster, McKenzie, R. Lapsley, D. Pasmore, F. V. Wong, T. C. Roger Woo, R. Dormer, F. W. Stapleton, A. C. Jeffreys, F. Burns, and Commandr. Graves.

Board of Trustees: Mr. F. W. Stapleton and Mr. A. C. Jeffreys. Hon. Auditors: Messrs. T. A. Martin and Company.
